EMERY WOUNDED

Shot by Drunken

Follows Attempt by Former Legion Head to

His Husband, Says

EMERY (Mich.) Oct. 22.—Three tortuous days and nights spent on the side of a canyon wall and at the bottom of a 100-foot fall, sustaining the life of her little 5-year-old niece with her own blood and with the body of her dead husband pinioned beneath a wrecked automobile a few feet away, may cause the death of Mrs. T. G. Kelly of this city, according to the statement of her physician here tonight.

Mrs. Kelly lies in a critical condition tonight at her home, 785 Fourth street. She is suffering severely from hunger, thirst, shock and exposure, and, subjected to frequent spells of hysteria, is said to be hovering on the verge of life and death. Her body is in a state of extreme exhaustion.

Her husband, who is a former member of the American Legion, was wounded in the upper part of his back today as he was attempting to protect her. Chedell Kelly, 6 years of age, husband and woman and defendant in a case now being heard last week, was shot before he could save his wife's real estate office. He was shot in the back of the head and died.

"I'm sorry I didn't shoot him," Mrs. Kelly said tonight. "I'm sorry I didn't shoot him."

SHENANDOAH ON WAY EAST

San Diego Left Yesterday Morning at 11 O'clock for Flight to Lakehurst; Making Fast Time

The Times radio station, KHJ, picked up a message last night from the Shenandoah stating that at 11 o'clock she was over Puerto Rico, and that all was well.

(EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH)
SAN DIEGO, Oct. 22.—Favorable weather conditions along the air lanes of the Southwest, and desire on the part of Lieutenant-Commander Zachary Lansdowne and his crew to get back to Lakehurst, N. J., as soon as possible, resulted in the Navy dirigible Shenandoah getting under way from North Island shortly after 11 o'clock this morning for the cross-country flight to the Atlantic.

Commander Lansdowne was passing over the richest farming section we have seen anywhere in the United States, as the dirigible Shenandoah through the radio as the great ship floated eastward over El Centro this afternoon. The ship passed directly over El Centro at 2 o'clock, traveling at a height of 4,500 feet, according to the officers' statement.

Prompted by curiosity, William Clements, an El Centro druggist, attempted to tune in with his radio after the Shenandoah had passed here. He heard the officers commenting to others of the crew the "ship" regarding the view they were getting of the Imperial Valley. The officer expressed a desire for Yuma, Tucson and El Paso radio facts to tune in tonight so they could receive reports of the dirigible's progress.

In contrast with the heavy wind that threw the Shenandoah nearly 200 miles off its course on its way to the Pacific, when the ship passed here today there was hardly a breath of air stirring. The craft sailed eastward at a rate of speed estimated at fifty miles an hour. Through field glasses, members of the crew could be plainly seen waving to the thousands of valley residents in the streets and yards staring up at them through the bright sunlight.

Departure of the Shenandoah occurred without ceremony, no aerial escort accompanying her on the start.

Capt. Thomas T. Craven, commander of the naval air station here, was a passenger on the Shenandoah. He is going East to visit his family and incidentally to observe the actions of the airship.

Vice-Presidential Candidate

(BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE)
WHEELING (W. Va.) Oct. 22.—Charles G. Dawes was welcomed tonight to the Ohio country where he was born and reared, by the greatest demonstration of his speaking campaign as the Republican candidate for Vice-President. Republicans of Ohio River cities from Pittsburgh to Marietta, O., the nominee's old home, joined in a rally which crowded Exposition Hall at State Fair Grounds Park.

They heard the nominee score against the Democratic ticket, and after expressing confidence in the defeat of radicalism in the West, he declared that he was a "President of the courage of Calvin Coolidge" and call on the Democrats to support him.

W. Davis, the Democratic Presidential candidate "to beware of the battle line" on the Constitutional question he declared had been raised by Senator La Follette.

Mr. Dawes, as in Philadelphia last night, divided his address between a discussion of the budget and an attack on the La Follette candidacy.

The reason you have economy in government is because you have a President of the courage of Calvin Coolidge," he declared. "It is not because of the budget and the business organization of the government, you will go back to the old era of extravagance. So look out."

New York Lawyer Tells How

Radical Candidacy

Overthrow of Government
Declared Real Purpose of Ticket's Backers

(BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE)
NEW YORK, Oct. 22.—Martin W. Littleton, president New York lawyer, in an address tonight which he said was nonpartisan, told the American Defense Society at the Hotel Commodore, that the Presidential candidacy of Senator Robert M. La Follette was "manufactured in June, 1921, by the combination of the revolutionary forces which are pledged to the overthrow of this government, in one way or another."

After declaring that Senators La Follette and Wheeler "enjoy the distinction of being the only two men who ever offered themselves for the post of president of the country who hoisted the white flag in times of war and the red flag in times of peace," Mr. Littleton attempted to show how the "revolutionary forces" brought about the candidacy of La Follette.

The beginning of the co-ordinated effort of these forces, he said, "was on June 27, 1921, at the Socialist convention held in cialist candidate for Governor of Rhode Island.

Referring to a meeting called by Senator La Follette, Mr. Littleton said:

"This meeting was well timed, for the People's Legislative Service, working hand in glove with the Conference for Progressive Political Action, was concerned about giving La Follette a position of control if possible in the Senate."

Mr. Littleton declared some of the men behind the movement had court records. He mentioned among others J. B. Brown, "who served two years in the Walla Walla (Wash.) penitentiary for burglarizing with a gun."

He said another man actively identified with the movement was Joseph Pogany, alias Joseph Lang, alias John Pepper, who figured in the John Brown revolutionary movement in Austria.

ACTIVE COMMUNIST

"It is interesting to note," said Mr. Littleton, "that Pepper, this unmistakable Red Communist, who was constantly in touch with C. B. Ruthenberg, was one of the members of the Communist convention and the first national convention which was held at Redwood, Mich., on August 22, 1932."

Mr. Littleton then showed by circumstances that the pretended exclusion of Communists at the conference held in December, 1932, at Cleveland was a sham and that these Communists were actually doing the other revolutionaries force, which brought about the nomination of La Follette and Wheeler.

Referring to an article written in the October, 1933, number of the Liberator, by Pepper, about "the La Follette revolution," Mr. Littleton said:

"While it does not appear that La Follette or Wheeler inspired the article, or that they were aware of its publication, it would not have been difficult for them to discover that their candidacy originated in a plot."

Mr. Littleton referred to John Schwarzkopf, who was discharged from the New York bar in 1911 and who later was associated with David C. A. M. Martens, the so-called Soviet envoy to the United States, who was deported. Schwarzkopf has admitted that he was the personal representative of La Follette, according to Mr. Littleton, who said he had an affidavit supporting to show that Schwarzkopf was recruited at the office maintained by the La Follette-Wheeler organization in New York City.

"It is known," he continued, "and I dare say it cannot be denied that Schwarzkopf is now in a position of authority in the La Follette-Wheeler office in New York City."

Schwarzkopf is closely associated with J. A. H. Hopkins, who is treasurer of the La Follette-Wheeler campaign and was appointed to this position by Mr. Hopkins. Mr. Littleton charged. He also said that Schwarzkopf was a companion of Nurtvite, secretary of Martens.

I. W. W. LEADER ACTIVE

Mr. Littleton asserted that J. W. N. Bolinger, "one of the five leaders of the Industrial Workers of the World strike," is a member of the committee of the La Follette organization in the State of Washington.

"I do not say," said Mr. Littleton, "that Senator La Follette has informed the Soviet government of Russia, but I do say that, considering the source of his candidacy, the means by which it was brought about, the confederated agencies which run the campaign of the Communists through the back room of the Socialist to the war of the parties, the La Follette ticket has not been unimpaired of the possibilities which lay out in front of him when he returned from his visit to Russia."

Mr. Littleton asserted that J. W. N. Bolinger, "one of the five leaders of the Industrial Workers of the World strike," is a member of the committee of the La Follette organization in the State of Washington.

"I do not say," said Mr. Littleton, "that Senator La Follette has informed the Soviet government of Russia, but I do say that, considering the source of his candidacy, the means by which it was brought about, the confederated agencies which run the campaign of the Communists through the back room of the Socialist to the war of the parties, the La Follette ticket has not been unimpaired of the possibilities which lay out in front of him when he returned from his visit to Russia."

ARIZONA IS SPLIT ON LA FOLLETTE

Democrats Suspect Inside Plot Against Davis

Separate Headquarters Are Opened in Bisbee

Realize a Split Will Give State to Republicans

PHOENIX, Oct. 22.—The division of Arizona Democrats between Davis and La Follette is being defined more sharply as the campaign progresses.

Separate headquarters have been established in Bisbee, with Gen. John C. Greenway in charge, and with district directors in several parts of the State.

Suspicion is voiced that individuals within the State administration are "boring from within" against Davis, whom they had opposed for nomination, favoring McAdoo in the convention.

It is evident that Arizona old-line Democrats appreciate the probability that the split created by the radical move toward La Follette will throw Arizona again into the Republican column, as far as the Presidency is concerned.

Congressman Carl Hayden, now heading a party of candidates, urges support of Davis, with the prediction that his party's greatest danger lies in division of its ranks, possibly placing the Republican candidate in power for the next four years.

George U. Young, chairman of the third party movement in Arizona, declares that La Follette is going to get Arizona's three votes. It is claimed that Miami alone had 1500 supporters of the Wisconsin Senator, and that the labor union strength everywhere in the State is going for him, especially shown in the coal-mining centers at Yuma, Tucson, Winslow and Seligman.

Mr. Littleton then showed by circumstances that the pretended exclusion of Communists at the conference held in December, 1932, at Cleveland was a sham and that these Communists were actually doing the other revolutionaries force, which brought about the nomination of La Follette and Wheeler.

Referring to an article written in the October, 1933, number of the Liberator, by Pepper, about "the La Follette revolution," Mr. Littleton said:

"While it does not appear that La Follette or Wheeler inspired the article, or that they were aware of its publication, it would not have been difficult for them to discover that their candidacy originated in a plot."

Mr. Littleton referred to John Schwarzkopf, who was discharged from the New York bar in 1911 and who later was associated with David C. A. M. Martens, the so-called Soviet envoy to the United States, who was deported. Schwarzkopf has admitted that he was the personal representative of La Follette, according to Mr. Littleton, who said he had an affidavit supporting to show that Schwarzkopf was recruited at the office maintained by the La Follette-Wheeler organization in New York City.

"It is known," he continued, "and I dare say it cannot be denied that Schwarzkopf is now in a position of authority in the La Follette-Wheeler office in New York City."

Schwarzkopf is closely associated with J. A. H. Hopkins, who is treasurer of the La Follette-Wheeler campaign and was appointed to this position by Mr. Hopkins. Mr. Littleton charged. He also said that Schwarzkopf was a companion of Nurtvite, secretary of Martens.

NEW YORK LAST BATTLE GROUND

Both Davis and La Follette Concentrate on State

Little Chance Exists for Either to Win There

Coolidge's Strength Can't be Overcome by Foes

BY ARTHUR SEARS BENNING

NEW YORK, Oct. 22.—Both Davis and La Follette will make their last stand in the Presidential battle in this State, which already is illuminated with the fireworks of the contest over the Governorship between Al Smith and young Theodore Roosevelt.

Both the Davis and La Follette managers entertain visions of bagging the forty-five electoral votes of New York, if not New Jersey's fourteen.

It is conceivable that the election would be decided in the Electoral College, if either Davis or La Follette should carry New York, but New York alone will not elect a President. Moreover, it appears inevitable to me that either Davis or La Follette will lose New York.

The confidence of La Follette that he has succeeded in electing the election in any way is expressed today by Atty.-Gen. Egan of Wisconsin, treasurer of the Socialist third party, in giving his version of why La Follette suddenly abandoned his western speaking tour and headed back through the Middle West to New York.

"We are now assured of enough States in the West to prevent the election of Hoover," said Mr. Egan. "The situation is safe there, and Senators La Follette and Wheeler are swinging into the East to capture enough votes to win."

Despite La Follette's statements on the wickedness of raising and expending large sums for election purposes, Mr. Egan, in a formal statement appeals for contributions without placing any limit thereon. He leaves open the possibility that he will accept contributions in individual amounts exceeding any made to the Republican and Democratic candidates.

The aggregate amounts surpassing the $2,000,000 total aimed at by the Republican National Committee.

"If our friends liberally now, we can put this thing over," is the tribute to the potency of money in electioneering, said Mr. Egan. "We are going to win."

Mr. Egan's statement is a thinly veiled appeal for contributions, apparently depends in the La Follette ethics on who and what are put over.

So far as the Republican national ticket in this State is concerned, the only uncertainty remaining is whether La Follette or Davis will receive a heavy vote in the popular vote. The numerous newspaper polls conducted hereabouts indicate that the Wisconsin Senator will receive a heavy vote in New York City, but a comparatively light vote up-State. Precinct polls made by the Republican County Committee and Tammany show the La Follette vote greatly overestimated.

What with some Democrats voting for La Follette, however, and others for Coolidge for various reasons it looks as if there would not be much left of the party of Jefferson and Jackson nationally in this State, when the votes are counted.

Most of the politicians, whether Republican or Democratic, are ready to carry the city by a small plurality besides coming down to the Bronx on a tidal wave of votes.

Tammany is beating the tom-toms and going through all the motions of an indestructible campaign. La Follette and Wheeler are daily insisting that the efforts being put forth are quite as much in behalf of Davis as of Al Smith. Still, the underground current of political gossip is all to the effect that Tammany will leave no stone unturned to put Al Smith over even if it becomes necessary to sacrifice Davis and all the rest of the State ticket, trading votes for Coolidge and for La Follette in exchange for votes for Al.

Coolidge and Smith are said to be the combination favored by a large aggregation of Democrats, and demonstrating that Al Smith is the only Democrat who can carry New York and who can win with Al as his Presidential nominee than with any other.

PLAN GLOVE FAIR

CHICAGO, Oct. 22.—Plans for the annual convention and glove fair of the National Association of Leather Glove and Mitt Manufacturers, to take place here from November 10 to 15, are rapidly nearing completion. It has been decided that the business sessions of the convention are to be confined to one day, leaving the glove fairs free to devote themselves to their fair for the rest of the week.

LA FOLLETTE SEEKS 'TIMES' PUBLICITY

Typical La Follette campaigning is under way in portions of the Wilshire district where circulars intended to aid the cause of the radical candidate are being inserted in copies of The Times after the route boys delivered the papers at the doors of subscribers.

The cheap trick is so obvious that it has promptly reacted upon the "master minds" who conceived it, and as a vote getter for Coolidge it is a complete success.

Vaughan Says He's Proud of Republican Party

Committee Fails to Find Any Scandalous Doings

BY PHILIP KINLEY

WASHINGTON, Oct. 22.—Only one needed the presence of Senator La Follette himself or his running mate, Wheeler, to add the perfect touch to the drama of political contrasts that was offered by the Borah committee today.

Samuel N. Vaughan, a picture of the old English "ironmaster," was the ablest, most militant, last-gasp witness among the millionaires of the East who were called to the Senatorial carpet to explain their motives, their supposed secret and sinister purposes, in supporting with their pocketbooks the candidacy of Coolidge.

This head of the Baldwin Locomotive Works, director in more corporations than he could recall, gave to all religious and anti-charities, faced the keen attorneys for Senator La Follette and gave them his faith and his philosophy hard and straight.

"I am not ashamed of the Republican party," he said. "I never entered my house whether it would be a million dollars or a million to win this election."

"Money talks," asked Samuel Untermyer in dry sarcasm.

"No, sir, right-doingness talks. I have confidence enough in the working people of this country to feel that they will not be hoodwinked by anything. The American working man votes straight."

"You feel that you speak for the American workingman?" asked Attorney Frank F. Walsh in amazement.

"Yes, I do not speak for Mr. Samuel Gompers. I haven't the slightest fear of La Follette, but every honest man is a Democrat and every Democrat is not a honest man."

"Do you believe this that they are likely to cast enough votes to defeat the Republican party?"

Years ago, Mr. Grundy said, he was "very active" in working with legislative bodies in tariff and other matters, and had often been in Washington for the wool interests.

Mr. Folwell testified that he had given $10,000 to the Republican party for the campaign.

MRS. COOLIDGE SLUR REBOUNDS Women Protest Ridicule by Elizabeth Marbury

Criticism Draws Democrats to President's Banner

Economy of First Lady is
Scoffed at by Writer

(EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH)
NEW YORK, Oct. 22.—Col. Rhineland Waldo, president of the Coolidge Nonpartisan League, says that thousands of women are joining the league as a result of the criticism of Mrs. Calvin Coolidge by Miss Elizabeth Marbury, one of the foremost women Democrats in the United States. Miss Marbury was a delegate-at-large to the Democratic convention, and with Norman E. Mack of Buffalo, represents New York on the National Democratic Committee.

"Miss Marbury's attack on the first lady of the land," said Col. Waldo, "might pass unnoticed if Miss Marbury herself were not the recognized leader of Democratic women in New York State, and one of the most prominent and influential women in politics in the country. Women from all parties have been led by her attack to support Mr. Coolidge for President."

Miss Marbury criticized Mrs. Coolidge at a luncheon in honor of Mrs. John W. Davis, wife of the Democratic candidate for President. This luncheon was given by the women's district leaders of Tammany Hall. Miss Marbury was the principal speaker.

FINDS FAULT
She found fault with Mrs. Coolidge for having, before her marriage, made her own shirtings at a cost of $1.49 each. She also criticized Mrs. Coolidge for having, after her marriage, baked her own bread and pies.

Miss Marbury dealt at length with the early married life of the Coolidges on a farm in Vermont, and poked fun at Mrs. Coolidge's doing housework and baking. She referred to this sewing and baking, and the farm life in general of the Coolidges, as "milk and water."

The fact that Mrs. Coolidge before her marriage had received the small salary of a country-school teacher, and that the Coolidges had found it necessary to practice economy in their early married life, was not mentioned by Miss Marbury.

Miss Marbury is a woman of wealth. For many years she was financial agent for dramatists in this country and Europe, and has been twice decorated by the French government for her work for French artists. She maintains a chateau at Versailles, France, and is famous in Europe for her entertainment of Old World nobility and royalty.

PROTESTS MADE
Miss Marbury's criticisms were printed in the newspapers, and immediately women of all political affiliations began making protests. Many of the women were Democratic women active in politics with Mrs. Marbury. Mrs. Marion R. Roosevelt, in an open conference of the National Democratic Club, set forth the following:

"Since when has it become necessary for women of culture and refinement to make sneering allusions on a public platform to the humble and simple life which has been led by our President and his family? Can it be possible that our Democratic party is so shallow of soul as to permit that it must stoop to criticism of the first lady of the land, for the making of a house and having knowledge of cooking and making use of that knowledge? Both of these accomplishments are the truest type of Americanism. The pity is that there are not more to follow Mrs. Coolidge's example."

PUBLIC ANSWER
Mrs. Victor R. Allen wrote another public answer to Miss Marbury, as follows:

"Every true woman, no matter of what party or affiliation, must have read with indignation the slur cast on the first lady of the land by Miss Elizabeth Marbury. Mrs. Coolidge's apparent effort in all pictures to not eliminate herself has been evidenced since her position naturally made her a public figure of interest. And Elizabeth Marbury, a mother who would have noted the magnificent spirit which Mrs. Coolidge has carried on despite a grief-ridden heart, since the death of her beloved child. Each time I have seen her picture, since Calvin, Jr.'s death, her proud, beautiful face, calm and smiling, the tears have rushed to my eyes and I have felt a tightening around my heart, knowing full well how terrific an ordeal she was undergoing for her public. We other mothers are free to creep away and indulge in the outlet that grief brings, but not so our gracious splendid first lady of the land."

"I can only excuse Miss Marbury's unwarranted attack on this splendid woman by realizing she has never known the heart ache of the loss of a child."

Efforts are now being made to minimize the import of Miss Marbury's words. Since the storm of protest arose, Miss Marbury herself has said she was joking. The explanation, without any withdrawal, has not lessened the protests.

COOLIDGE "HEAP BIG CHIEF" President Initiated Into Mysteries of Arizona's Smoki Snake Clan on White House Lawn

PHOENIX, Oct. 22.—A telegram from Washington brings word that President Coolidge has added to his many honors that of membership in the Smoki Snake Clan of Arizona. On the White House lawn he has been initiated into the mysteries of the order and has received instruction in its mysteries.

He was crowned with a big Smoki hat, with a band of copper on which had been engraved "Big Chief Calvin Coolidge, President of the United States and Chief of the Smokis."

The Arizonians who conferred the degree were Miss Grace M. Sparks, secretary of the Prescott Chamber of Commerce and an honorary member of the Smoki, and H. B. Watkins, manager of the Phoenix Chamber of Commerce. Both readily could have been recognized as Arizonians, for they were five-gallon hats such as are the delight of the range riders.

LABOR TURNING ON LA FOLLETTE Wisconsin Voters Beginning to See Menace, Says Treat

Ex-City Official Ends Tour of East, Middle West

Workers Said to be Satisfied
With Coolidge

That thinking people all over the country, including even Wisconsin, are waking up to the menace presented by La Follette's candidacy for the Presidency, was the conclusion reached by Charles H. Treat, former president of the Board of Public Works of Los Angeles, as the result of his observations of the political situation during a five weeks' trip of the East and Middle West from which he has just returned.

"I traveled over a considerable section of the East, including the 'favorite son' of Wisconsin, where I found the sentiment unfavorable to La Follette and strong for Coolidge," said Mr. Treat. "Even the labor element, on which the Wisconsin Senator counts for his strongest support, is beginning to go against him."

ARE SATISFIED
This was particularly true in the industrial sections of Massachusetts, where one hears workingmen on every side declaring that they are satisfied with present conditions and do not care to take a chance on losing their jobs by voting for La Follette. I visited many of the small towns and found the sentiment almost solid for Coolidge among both merchants and tradespeople.

The same thing is true in the Middle West. I did not visit Wisconsin, La Follette's home State, but even there I am informed that the sentiment is strong for Coolidge. The sentiments of a large part of the people of Wisconsin, I am informed, are well expressed in a letter I recently received from a friend of mine in Sheboygan, F. S. Morris, the head of the Veilrath Company, one of the largest concerns engaged in the manufacture of porcelain ware in the United States. Mr. Morris writes me as follows:

STARTED FIGHT
"It was former Senator Stephenson and not La Follette that started the fight against the railroads in Wisconsin, yet today you find his memory blackguarded by La Follette as he has done in the last two or three days in public, and just as he blackguards every man who does not fall down before him. La Follette has fooled the people continuously in this State for a great number of years, but I hope and pray that he will not get by with this sort of stuff in California. It would be a crime."

Mr. Treat said he is pleased to discover upon his return home that the same disintegration of the La Follette support which he found in the East seems to have been in progress in Southern California during the five weeks of his absence.

OPEN DOOR PACT URGED BY ENVOY

British Ambassador Says
Dances Plan Working

Wars Seen in Roughshod
Concession Hunting

Hails Peace Protocol as Sincere Effort

(BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE)

NEW YORK, Oct. 22.—Although the Dawes reparations plan has been in operation only a short time, there is "more hope, more good will, and more charity abroad in Europe than there has been for ten years at least, if not almost from time immemorial," Sir Esmé Howard, British Ambassador to the United States, declared in an address here today at a luncheon of the New York Board of Trade and Transportation.

Speaking on the general subject of "Economics in International Politics and International Trade," the Ambassador also referred to past activities of certain concession hunters and company promoters in world fields, which sometimes have threatened the peace of the world. He declared that there is "only one way to eliminate this possible danger to peace and good will, and that is by the strict application of the American doctrine of the open door."

EFFECTS ARE VISIBLE

"If there is one thing we have learned during the last few strenuous and terrible years," he said, "it is the necessity of recognizing the value of economics in international politics. The Dawes reparations scheme, which brought the whole question out of the murky atmosphere of sentiment and politics down onto the bedrock of hard economic fact, has proved to those interested that it is, when you come to dealing in numbers, required for reparations almost as difficult to receive them without upsetting the economic apple cart as to pay them."

"Even now there are many who believe that the payment of the sum fixed by the Dawes plan may produce economic convulsion in the creditor countries. 'Already the effects of the cure are visible, although the plan has only actually been in operation a few days. I am, I fear, a natural optimist, but when I read the speeches of the various statesmen at the opening of the fifth assembly of the League of Nations, I could not help feeling that even those who might disagree with some of the things they said must be convinced that they, one and all, were inspired with a genuine heartfelt desire to establish a reign of peace on earth.'

"I hope that any reference to the speeches at Geneva will not be construed by anyone as an attempt to influence American public opinion one way or another with reference to the League."

FAVORS OPEN DOOR

"I should like, if I may do so, without impudence, to quote some words of the President of the United States in a recent speech. He said: 'It is no part of public policy, as the American people now conceive it, to tear down legitimate and useful business. But it is their firm determination that business forms and methods shall be subordinated to the public interest.' 'There we have it all in a nutshell. But if business form and methods are subordinated to the public interest at home, how much more important is it that they should be so subordinated abroad where the clash of competition may easily produce ill-will and serious complications with other countries and so endanger that will to peace which we are all agreed should be the principal aim of all.'

"Certain concession hunters have no hesitation in getting up newspaper and political agitation to further their objects, and by doing so to embroil their own country with other friendly

Trotsky Takes Up Cudgel

(BY DONALD DAY)

[Copyright, 1924, by the Chicago Tribune]
RIGA, Oct. 22.—The increasing number of murders of newspaper correspondents in Russia has attracted the attention of War Commissar Trotsky, who takes up the cudgel in their behalf, writing a leading article in the Moscow Pravda. The casualties among village correspondents of Moscow papers now number forty-five. M. Trotsky declares:

"The eyes and ears of the central government must have protection against the kulaks—rich peasants. Our correspondents must continue to report offenses against laws, tax dodging and speculation. The kulaks are the soviet government's most dangerous enemy. He is the type of man of the American Secretary of State Hughes—he wants private trade and the right to acquire property. So while Hughes threatens Russia from without the multitudes of little Hughes threaten Russia within."

"The little Hughes have united the peasants into groups of bandits, who are murdering correspondents, killing Communist officials, and preventing the collection of grain. Russia's little Hughes threaten the soviet government with civil war. However, we have weapons and our gay payee—State political police, formerly the Cheka—must get busy."

WASHINGTON, Oct. 22.—The body of Private Russell Shores, 32 years of age, sentry at Walter Reed Hospital reservation, was found in a secluded section of the grounds early this morning by the sentry, who followed Shores on the same post. The soldier's cap was four feet away. A revolver with one shell exploded was seven feet from the body. A bullet wound was in Shores's left breast.

Investigation by hospital authorities, assisted by Detectives Darrell and Springman of police headquarters, led to the belief that the cause of the death was suicide. Coroner J. Ramsey Neville viewed the body, but refrained from issuing a certificate of death. An autopsy will be conducted and an inquest later to determine the cause of death.

GRIDDERS ARE EXCITED

Occidental Team Out to Mop Up Field With Grizzlies Saturday; Pomona Entertains Redlands

It begins to appear as if there might be a lot of excitement at Moore Field Saturday afternoon when Coach Sid Nichols introduces his Occidental Tigers to Jimmy Cline's Grizzlies. Although in years gone by it has been taken more or less for granted that the Little Bears would prove little more than a door-mat for Oxy teams, the situation is considerably changed this season and from all indications the Bengals may be converted into a neat prayer rug themselves before the afternoon's battle is over.

Nichols's charges are mad. Not at the Grizzlies, but at plenty of other folks. First of all, some one said a few days ago that the California team ought to beat the Bengals easily. Then somebody else came out and intimated that Oxy had started the Santa Clara game early so that the Bronchos would feel the heat, when as a matter of fact, Eddie Kienholz himself asked for 1:30 as the starting time.

Also, Nichols has been "riding" the boys this week because they let down against Santa Clara. All of which makes Dave Riddickhoff, manager of the Boston Braves, get more votes in the National League ballot, and the latter is a poor second to Pittsburgh's phenomenal youngster, Wright. McGraw transferred Frisch from second to third base, where he has not played the last season in order to place him on his All-American, but the players give their vote to Traynor of Pittsburgh.

Christy Mathewson in making up his All-American uses six National League players. They are Pitcher Vance and First Baseman Fourrier of Brooklyn; Second Baseman Hornsby of St. Louis; Third Baseman Frisch of New York; Shortstop Bancroft of Boston; and Center Fielder Roush of Cincinnati. In the National League ballot, Kelly of New York was held to be better than Fourrier at first base; Traynor of Pittsburgh, got the third place position in preference to Frisch, and Wright of Pittsburgh, had a huge lead over Bancroft of Boston for shortstop.

One player other than Pitcher Vance appears to hold an unrivaled supremacy. McGraw, Mathewson and Ruth all picked Roush of Cincinnati as All-American center fielder. National League players ratify this choice.

Only one of the experts picked Hartnett of Chicago as All-American catcher. That was McGraw. His selection has the O. K. apparently of Hartnett's comrades in the National League.

Viewed from all angles, the All-American team is a very strong one. It would cover the field like a net on the defense and possess a battering offense. With Vance in the box it would have airtight pitching. Pitting this team against the one selected by the American League players ought to produce a great battle.

McGraw picked his own shortstop, Travis Jackson, for All-American shortstop, but good as the youngster is, his predecessor with the Giants, Bancroft, now manager of the Boston Braves, gets more votes in the National League ballot, and the latter is a poor second to Pittsburgh's phenomenal youngster, Wright. ## MIDGETS TO CLASH ON GRID

Lightweight High School Elevens in Two Contests This Afternoon

Lincoln and Franklin at Franklin; Manual Arts and Jefferson at Jefferson—that's the lightweight football program on tap for today. Lincoln, Franklin and Jefferson clash in the second round of their schedules, while the Artisans make their official debut.

The Tiger-Printer game looms as the better of the two. Lincoln's underlings dropped their opener to Jefferson. High by a 14-10 score last week, but showed enough class to make them an outfit to be reckoned with. On the other hand, the Buff and Blue lights are rated as among the best in the league. After outplaying L. A. High for three quarters last week, they slowed down and lost a 2-0 decision. The fans are sure to be treated to something spectacular when the two teams take the field, size 6-7 is accurate in the game. The Lincoln backfield hurls passes at any old time or place. Kondo, a speedy end, is usually on the receiving end, and is a wizard at making the impossible ones. He scored both touchdowns with long passes against Jefferson. Franklin has the old "dead-man" pass down pat.

Jefferson's 120-pounders are light but tough and fast. A couple of youngsters by the name of Gregory and Cirino make things miserable for the opposition in every case. Gregory got credit for a 55-yard runback of a kick against Lincoln last week, and Cirino was the whole Green and Gold team while he was in.

L. A. High, Polytechnic and Hollywood elevens have byes.

OWNER OF EPINARD SAILS FOR FRANCE

(REUTERS DISPATCH) NEW YORK, Oct. 22.—Pierre Wertheimer, owner of Epinard for whom he is said to have recently received an offer of $100,000, sailed today on the French liner Paris. He was undismayed by the four defeats his horse suffered in this country and asserted that if he could find a better horse in France than Epinard he would probably bring him to this country next year. He was accompanied by his jockey, Everett Haynes.

Numerous horse lovers and race-track fans, including John Montgomery, immigration inspector, who is said to be one of the leading experts on horseflesh in the country, were at the pier to bid him good-by.

PAAVO NURMI Will Invade This Country

(BY A. P. MONT WIRE) NEW YORK, Oct. 22.—Although plans for the indoor track and field season are still in the formative stage, prospects point to an unusually brilliant program with the international competition that will bring many Olympic stars into the limelight.

Outstanding in interest is the expected invasion of Paavo Nurmi, great Finnish runner and hero of four Olympic triumphs, and the probability that he will match strides with his rival countryman, Willie Ritola, Joe Ray, the former American mile champion, and Ray Barker, present national mile holder.

Nurmi has informed friends that he will come here the latter part of December to prepare for an indoor campaign here, but as yet he has not formally entered any meets. The Millrose A.A. is seeking the famous Finn's participation in its two-day carnival at Madison Square Garden, January 27 and 28.

Solon Mound Marvel Wires He'll Hurl Full Game

Saturday Will Be Big Day for Senator Pitcher

Walter Johnson, for years the Mol of the baseball public, who more endeared himself in the hearts of American fans by pitching the Washington Senators to a world series championship in the deciding game, after waiting for eighteen years in the majors to accomplish the task, will arrive in Los Angeles Saturday afternoon on the Santa Fe. It was announced yesterday by Charles A. Meyer, who is sponsoring the great Solon's trip to the Coast.

Johnson comes here for the express purpose of pitching for the White King Soaps in a benefit game at Washington Park, the proceeds of which will go to the Home of the Good Shepherd.

The mound marvel of the Washington club probably has had several big days in his great diamond career, but the afternoon mapped out for him on his arrival here will probably be one of the biggest.

Johnson, who will be accompanied to Los Angeles by his wife and family, will be given a great reception when he steps off the Santa Fe train. A committee, composed of Charles A. Meyer, vice-president of the Los Angeles Soap Company; J. Walter Clume, executive chairman of the Home of the Good Shepherd; all the members of the City Council, Police Chief Leo H. Beach, Judge Hugh J. Crawford, Sheriff William L. Tranger and Under-Sheriff Eugene Blackwell, will be on hand to welcome Johnson to Los Angeles.

With a squad of six traffic officers leading the procession, Johnson and his family will make a hurried trip to the Biltmore Hotel. From the Biltmore the whole delegation will motor out to Pirrone Park, where Mary Pickford will present Johnson with the key to the city just before the game between Pirrone's professional stars and the Eastern Colored Stars begins.

After leaving Pirrone Park Johnson will be taken to the Hollywood studios, where he will spend the rest of the day.

Johnson will pitch Saturday at Washington Park against the Vernon Tigers. The famous Washington star has wired that he intends to pitch the full nine innings, unless knocked out by the machine, something not expected. Tickets are now on sale at Washington Park. From the first sale, a capacity crowd is expected.

The estate of the late Frank Chance amounted to $250,000 or $300,000, according to Karl Panake, brother-in-law of the dead baseball leader. Chance's will, leaving $40,000 in various stocks to Edith Chance as administratrix, was admitted to probate on Tuesday.

Panake explained today that the St. Maxon apartment building in Los Angeles, a $25,000 mortgage on a business block in Glendale, Cal., cash, lots in California, and some Chicago real estate, worth considerably more than $150,000 additional was not mentioned in the will and all went to Mrs. Chance. This property and other holdings had been made over to Mrs. Chance prior to Frank's death.

Not one dollar in debts was sent against the estate, following Chance's sudden death. Every outstanding bill, even for the smallest personal item, had been paid by Chance a day or two before.

8? LOS ANGELES 3 MORE DAYS

Watch tomorrow's papers

Twenty thousand ardent baseball fans are expected at Washington Park next Monday when Babe Ruth, champion batsman of the American League, and a score of players famous in their respective leagues stage a benefit game, the proceeds of which are to be devoted to the worthy charities of Los Angeles, under the auspices of the Knights of Columbus.

The batteries for Monday's game include four of the biggest men available. The first ball will be pitched by Sheriff William Tranger of Los Angeles county president of the Southern California Baseball Managers' Association. The catcher will be Capt. John L. Butler, former chief of police and now managing director of the Downtown Association of Los Angeles.

As umpire, Joseph Scott of the Knights of Columbus, and headliner and attorney of Southern California, will function, and the first batter will be no less than Babe Ruth himself.

Sheriff Tranger yesterday declared that he would have a strike called on Babe Ruth on the first call, and Capt. Butler, with whom the Sheriff has been holding secret signal drill, intimated that a conspiracy had been consummated whereby the home run king would be forced to impersonate a bush leaguer. Capt. Butler at his desk in the downtown association offices admitted that the art of catching baseball was no novelty to him, as he had filed that position on the Bloom Springs (Ark.) Scouts thirty-five years ago.

The man who won the world's championship for Washington, Earl McNeely, will play opposite the famous Bambino. William Emsick, Vernon manager, and Marty Krus, the hero of the Coast League pen-

Loyola Eleven Meets Caltech Here Saturday

Still ranking at the defeat handed them last week by the La Verne athletes, the Loyola College grid aggregation will tackle the husky Caltech eleven on here Saturday afternoon in one of their hardest games of the season. To date the Lions have two victories, one tie, and one defeat checked up to their credit, while Caltech has been pretty unfortunate.

The local squad has been hard hit by injuries. The strongest cog in the machine, "Big Chief" Brown, halfback, will most likely be out of the game because of injuries received in the La Verne fracas, and Bill Bergman, substitute full, is laid up with a case of blood poisoning.

Lowry will jump into Brown's shoes at half, as last week he distinguished himself for his ability to gallop through La Verne for substantial gains. The Lions should have a formidable backfield with either Hoeffler or Tunney at full, Lowry and Curran at the halves, and Leo Hoffman at quarter.

The line showed up pretty ragged and weak against La Verne. Since then Bill Hess has been driving the men nightily. "Red" Manion looks extra good as an end.

BAMBINO SLIGHTLY INJURES HIS HAND

YREKA, Oct. 22.—Herman "Babe" Ruth, home-run king, became so excited while watching the leaping salmon in the Klamath River, near here, today that he thrust his hand through a pane of glass in the door of his automobile, cutting his hand slightly. Upon his arrival here he had the hand treated by a physician. It is expected that the hand will be healed sufficiently permit Ruth keeping an engagement to play ball in the San Francisco Bay region Saturday and Sunday.

Ground rules apparently will be in force next Monday because of the heavy demand for reserve and box seat tickets indicated yesterday.

Tickets are on sale at R. H. Dryas Company, A. G. Spalding & Bros., Los Angeles Athletic Club and the Continental Hotel, and James P. Walsh, chairman of the executive committee, has announced the following prices: General admission, 75 cents; unre-seated seats, $1; the first five rows of the grandstand, $1.50; box seats, $2. General admission tickets will be on sale at the box office at Washington Park on Monday.

It was also announced by Harry A. Williams, chairman of the reserve committee, that plans had been completed to welcome the famous star of the diamond at the Southern Pacific Railroad station on Monday afternoon. Williams arrives from San Francisco, and headed by Mayor Cryer, thousands of fans would be on hand to greet him.

Ken Williams Signs to Take Part in Opening

Walter Johnson Will be the Guest of Honor

Great Colored Club to Take Field Saturday

Joe Pirrone will open his new $10,000 semipro baseball plant, located at Thirty-eighth and Ascot, in a blaze of glory next Saturday afternoon. Not only has Pirrone lined up a squad containing seven major league stars, including the slugger Ken Williams, but he will also have all the city officials, Walter Johnson, Mary Pickford and numerous other nationally known figures on hand to insure the success of the grand opening.

The opposition for Pirrone's major league will be provided by players from two of the strongest colored clubs in the United States. The colored team, to be known as the Eastern Colored Stars, will be composed of the stars of the Kansas City Monarchs and the Philadelphia Hilldells, teams which recently finished a series for the colored world's championship.

Aside from Ken Williams, Pirrone will have the Arnold squad and Ping Bodie in the outfield, with himself ready for utility duty. On the infield will be Babe Herman, Earl McNeely, first baseman, and Johnson, New York Yankee, second base; Harvey McClellan, Chicago White Sox, shortstop, and Jimmy Austin, St. Louis Browns, third base. For utility will be Marvin "Red" Smith, Philadelphia Athletics, and Carl Sawyer, who will entertain with a lot of new comedy stuff. Johnny Basler, rated by Babe Ruth as the best catcher in the big leagues, will catch Saturday's game, with Pete Lapan, also ready for action.

If Hollis Thurston, Chicago White Sox sensation, arrives here in time he will hurl the opener, but if not Tom Rheehan, Cincinnati star, will do the honors. Pius Cavet, Minneapolis, southpaw, will act as relief hurler.

with forward passes and heat them. Apparently it requires no Sherlock Holmes to deduce that the Cougars can be run dizzay with passes, but on the other hand, two such defeats should have taught. Extending the necessity of building up an adequate defense against aerial attack and it is certain that the Cougars will be feeling very hostile when they tangle with the Bears Saturday.

This Saturday's games ought to give a good line on the Bears. They are the favorite of the hand of mad, and the Cougars are the favorite of the hand of mad.

Bill Henry has scored a clean-cut victory over Caltech and would seem to have a slight edge on the others. If Occidental and Occidental rather decisively, Nichols and his scrappy eleven will have to be counted in on the championship. Nichols is a point to do so they will be busy hounding around with the rest of the gang for second honor.

Baseball fans, particularly the kids, will be tickled to death at the opportunity presented this week to view two of the greatest athletes of all time, Walter Johnson and Babe Ruth. They play in exhibition games at Washington Park Monday and Tuesday, respectively. Johnson and he'll pitch the whole game for the White King nine against the Vernon nine.

Gen. Dawes Also Lauded by Business Leaders Here

Leading bankers, attorneys and business men of the city are virtually unanimous in the opinion that the administration of President Calvin Coolidge has been of such nature that it deserves the support of the American people as the polls on November 4.

In a series of statements submitted to the Republican headquarters, the soundness of the Coolidge administration, the high personal attributes of both President Coolidge and Gen. Dawes, and the experience in public affairs which both men have had, are stressed, and the need for leaving the government in the hands of such capable hands is brought out.

I think Mr. Coolidge is the safe and the sane candidate before the people today, and I consider the Coolidge-Dawes combination the most nearly ideal offered in the country in many years. Mr. Coolidge is a man of great mentality and a man who thoroughly understands national and international questions.

J. Wiseman MacDonald, well-known local attorney, I intend to vote the Republican ticket, for I am strongly in favor of Coolidge and under his administration the country has prospered, and under the Harding administration a very large reserve was accumulated. Such a situation is good for the country, and with Coolidge in the executive office, I believe we can look for continued good times.

M. V. Souder, vice-president of the United States National Bank, in New York, where I was visiting about ten days ago, the consensus of opinion was that Coolidge should be returned to the White House. Throughout the East the opinion seems to be very strongly held that Coolidge is the man for the place. There is no valid reason why the administration should be changed, and I do not believe that it will.

FAVORS OREGON RAIL EXTENSION

Commerce Body Examiner Recommends Road

Proposed Line to Run from Bend to Lakeview

Action Follows Campaign by Public Organizations

WASHINGTON, Oct. 22.—A recommendation that the Interstate Commerce Commission require the building of an extension of railroad from Bend to Lakeview, Or., including under present ownership of the Natron cut-off and from Hartman, Or., to a connection with the Natron cut-off, was made today in a lengthy report by C. J. Keppel, a commerce body examiner.

The extension was found by the examiner to be not justified, however, under present ownership of the existing line in Western Oregon, owing to probable insufficiency of traffic and his recommendation that the extension be made only if the railroad is to be operated by the National Pacific lines in Oregon from that system and assigning some or all of them to the new project as feeders.

LA FOLLETTE IN OUTBURST ON COOLIDGE

Radical Candidate Attacks Economy Record Made by the President

PEORIA (Ill.) Oct. 22.—Centering an attack on President Coolidge in an address here tonight, Senator Robert M. La Follette declared that the Chief Executive "waves at the apogee and wastes at the bungles."

"Coolidge is keen," continued the Wisconsin senator, "to use the economy plan to prevent the nation from discharging its just obligations to its World War veterans and old soldiers and to its postal employees, but when it comes to the big wastes and grafts that are draining the public treasury he suddenly goes blind."

"In contrast to these vetoes," Mr. La Follette said, "the record shows that Coolidge has consistently supported an increase in the military and naval establishments and has taken no action to stop the enormous sums of money being poured into the pockets of the military and naval establishments and the shipping industry. It is no interest in the prosecution and recovery of the billions stolen from the government by the military and naval establishments and the shipping industry. "My God, where are my sons," she cried.

"I am coming, mother," answered Tom Kelly, who rushed to her side, held her in his arms and they sobbed.

"Get me, mother," Mrs. Kelly said, "and water—my God, we must have water."

Heap picked up the little girl and tenderly carried her up the grade.

"Just don't let my arm drag, please," the girl said, "grandpa is dead. Please, please give me water."

Other searchers in the vicinity were called. The girl was taken to a mountaineer's home and given water and food and later brought to the city. Fixing a stretcher with an old set of bandages discarded by campers, the volunteer workers carried Mrs. Kelly up to the road and placed her in an automobile, which rushed her to the city. Kelly's body was later removed.

PLAN DRIVE TO GET OUT VOTE

Local Republicans to Seek Full Expression at Polls

Assert Apathy is Now Only Factor to be Combated

Reports Show Coolidge Holds His Lead in Southland

President Coolidge will attain a substantial majority, particularly in Southern California, in the coming election, was the opinion expressed last night by members of the Republican advisory committee at a dinner at the University Club. This is dependent, according to the speakers, on there being a good turnout of voters, as apathy may lose the State.

After reports from the various campaign headquarters in Southern California had been made, the committee discussed plans for the coming weeks in the campaign. An intensive and thorough drive to get the voters to the polls was the subject urged by many of the members of the committee and methods were devised for its accomplishment. It was advised that there should be no cessation of the war record of its candidate, Senator La Follette.

C. C. Toague, chairman of the Southern California campaign committee, presided and gave a report of the activities of the Coolidge-Dawes organization. He stated that twenty-three local headquarters have been organized in the Tenth Congressional District and twenty-one in the Ninth Congressional District, all functioning under the direction of general headquarters at 425 South Spring street. Nearly 110 voluntary workers are in the field, he said, as well as fifty speakers.

SCORES LA FOLLETTE
E. C. Finney, first assistant secretary of the interior, was introduced, and made a few pertinent remarks concerning La Follette.

"I believe that most of the good people who are supporting him are not very well pleased with his character," said Mr. Finney. "I have observed him in Washington for years, and I think he has never done one constructive thing. He is almost always opposing progression and filibustering. He makes things up, and acts on insufficient evidence. On matters concerning my department, with which I am very familiar and which we have the records, I find that La Follette, in his speeches, makes entirely opposite statements. I believe this is not deliberate on his part, but from simple lack of information."

The progress of the campaign among the women voters was explained by Mrs. Florence Collins Porter, Mrs. O. P. Clark, Mrs. H. Josephine Winn and Mrs. Harriett Works. They expressed the opinion that the women of the State admired and respected the character and principles of Calvin Coolidge, and would so demonstrate on November 4.

REPORTS HEARD
The campaign among ex-service men was reported upon by James Collins and J. W. McKinley, of the Republican Veterans' League.

Reports from the various counties of Southern California were read by George B. Bush, campaign committee secretary, and given at first hand by Grant Holcomb, chairman of the San Bernardino County Central Committee; Dr. R. A. Cushman, chairman of the Orange County Central Committee; Ralph Arnold, chairman of the Los Angeles County Central Committee; and Dr. Fred J. Grease, chairman of the Kern County Central Committee.

Short talks on the policy of the campaign were given by W. E. Evans, first vice-chairman of the Los Angeles County Central Committee, Attorney Joe Crail, E. P. Clark, Marshall Stinson, former Judge Gilbert, John Robert White and Louis Andrews.

SENSATIONS MARK TRIAL OF DOCTOR

Ventura Man Tells How He Bought Diploma from "National Ring"

(BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE)

SACRAMENTO, Oct. 22.—Sensational testimony relative to the operation of the so-called "National Ring" was given today when hearing before the State Board of Medical Examiners to determine whether or not the license of Dr. Frank P. Young of Los Angeles, asserted head of the Pacific Medical College, should not be revoked for illegal traffic in medical diplomas.

Several witnesses testified concerning the alleged activities of the so-called ring, including Harry Brundage, St. Louis newspaper man, whose investigation unearthed the operation of the ring throughout the nation.

Dr. Andrew Fraser of Ventura, now jointly indicted with Young in San Francisco for an alleged conspiracy in connection with the alleged fraudulent issuance of diplomas, took the witness stand today and turned State's evidence against Young.

Fraser told of buying a diploma from the so-called ring for $100, without taking a course of instruction in the Pacific Medical College.

It was rumored throughout the board room that the defense counsel had abandoned hope of saving the license of his client, but is continually objecting to the proceedings and delaying the hearing in an effort to force the prosecution to show their hand and disclose the evidence which they intend to present when Young comes up for trial in the San Francisco county Superior Court.

NEW YORK GREET'S LIPTON

Veteran English Yachtsman Predicts He Will Lift The America's Cup in 1926 Races

(EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH)

NEW YORK, Oct. 22.—Sir Thomas Lipton has not given up hope of lifting the America's cup in the international yacht races. He arrived today on board the United States Line steamship Leviathan and announced his intention of being a contender for the cup two years hence, when the yacht that he hopes will carry his colors to victory will be ready for the race.

The veteran yachtsman, with a complexion like a schoolgirl and as chipper as a cricket, although he is well past 70, was given a ruddy and demonstrative welcome to New York. The yacht Florida, owned by Barron Collier, and the police boat Gypsy, with Police Commissioner Enright and a party of notables, were alongside the Leviathan as early as 9 o'clock.

GREET VISITOR

The Police Commissioner, headed a committee which boarded the Leviathan to greet the visitor.

"I am ready to make a challenge," said Sir Thomas. "A committee of international yacht experts are now meeting in London to determine the size, requirements, etc., of the boats that will participate, and when they are through I receive their findings. I will decide the type of boat, and early next year I will make the formal announcement of my intention of sending a yacht to America to enter the race for America's cup. I expect the race will be sailed in 1926."

"I am still in the racing game. I did not think of racing and sailing last summer in the waters off the coast of England and France, and that is one of the reasons I ascribe for my good health. I will be ready and if I do so, I have a feeling that I will lift the cup."

COMPARES VISIT

Sir Thomas, in praising the Leviathan, which he said was so palatial and magnificent that he would have a job getting used to living ashore again, compared his arrival today to his first visit to America, which was in an immigrant ship more than fifty years ago.

"I landed at the Battery with little but the clothes on my back, but I was fortunate in getting free board in a lodging-house in Lower Washington street by drumming up trade for the place. I made some spending money writing letters to those who could not write. Yes, times have changed. I was not such a devil of a swell in those days."

Berkeley Belle Changes Mind as Wedding Gifts Arrive; Mother Ill, She Explains

(EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH)

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 22.—After climbing up the gangplank to the deck of the good ship Matrimony, Helen Trevor, daughter of a prominent Bay District realtor, living at 3426 Oregon street, Berkeley, decided she was not ready for the voyage and made a hasty retreat. William Horstmann, deputy manager of the Security Bond and Finance Company of Oakland, who was to have been the bridegroom, is maintaining a discreet silence.

The floral decorations are wilting, the wedding gifts are being returned and the guests are recovering from the surprise at the announcement which indefinitely postponed the nuptials.

MOTHER IS ILL

Miss Trevor sought seclusion in Burlingame, but because rumors were first thick and fast, she returned to her Berkeley home late today to "straighten things out," she said.

"My wedding was not held tonight because my mother is ill. The engagement is not broken, but I cannot tell at this time just when the ceremony will be performed," she explained. "Can't a girl put off her wedding without all these explanations?"

The engagement, which was the fulfillment of a campus romance at the University of California, was announced two months ago. Three weeks ago invitations were sent out for the wedding. The bride dress was completed, the cake had been received, the young couple were apparently radiantly happy in anticipation of a happy wedding life, and then a cloud drifted across the scene.

WAS POPULAR CO-ED
"There is no mystery. The wedding was put off because of sickness in the girl's family. Everything will come with all right. They're the dearest couple in the world and I know that happiness will come to them some time," was the explanation offered by Mrs. William J. Horstmann, 2474 Fulton street, mother of the youth who was to have been married.

Miss Trevor's marriage was to have been one of the social events of the college city. She is a member of the exclusive Delta Gamma Sorority and one of the most popular girls on the campus during her college days. Young Horstmann is an Alpha Chi Omega and has been prominent in Oakland and Berkeley business circles since his graduation.

R. P. RIVERA, ATTORNEY, FOUND DEAD

Lawyer Thought to Have Succumbed to Attack of Acute Indigestion

(BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE)

Robert Porfirio Rivera, 48 years of age, local attorney who apparently suffered a severe attack of acute indigestion during the night, was found dead in his home, 108 1/2 Spring street, yesterday morning. When he failed to appear in court yesterday a business associate telephoned his apartment and receiving no response decided to investigate. Dead for several hours, his body was in such a condition as to lead police and medical authorities to assume that he had suffered a fatal attack of indigestion during the night.

Mr. Rivera has been practicing law here for a number of years and was a member of the Knights of Pythias and Yacht Club. He is survived by two brothers, Adolph V. and Joseph Rivera, both of Los Angeles.

Funeral services, which will be under the auspices of the Knights of Pythias, will be held from the funeral home of Charles Moore, 508 Court street, at 3 o'clock tomorrow afternoon.

After Lucas had been arrested, J. Holden, 21; John Williams, 24; and Harry Simmons, 44, were said by the policewoman to have attempted to flirt with her. All four were arrested and held without bail last night, charged with disorderly conduct.

FUROR DIES IN ELECTRIC CHAIR CASE

Indicted Teacher Says Punishment Used Only to Scare Unruly

(BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE)

BARNESVILLE (Minn.) Oct. 22.—Excitement which had prevailed at the first announcement that H. T. Ophahl, science teacher in the Barnesville High School, had been arrested and released on $2000 bonds in connection with charges that he used an "electric chair" to punish inebriated students had died down in Barnesville today with parents of pupils, members of the school board and Ophahl all apparently content to await the outcome of the preliminary hearing next Saturday.

Until that time it is indicated Ophahl will continue to have charge of his classes as usual.

The use of the "electric chair," according to Ophahl, was the outcome of a method to "scare the pupils who since the beginning of school would not subject themselves to discipline."

It was made from a standard office chair to which a high-frequency coil had been attached, said Ophahl, and under the most favorable conditions, the current "would merely cause a tingling sensation to the student being punished."

FRENCH END RUHR REGION OCCUPATION

Soldiers March Out of Dortmund; Berlin Chiefs Congratulate Residents

(BY GEORGE SEEDS)

BERLIN, Oct. 22.—Under a gray wet sky, the French army occupying Dortmund gathered its possessions and quit the Ruhr, thus marking an end to one of the biggest political and military moves in Europe since the war. Many smaller villages are still occupied, but the evacuation of Dortmund marks the end of the French regime in the Ruhr.

Shortly after noon President Ebert and Chancellor Marx telegraphed greetings to the liberated population, thanking the people for their loyalty to the republic and for their dignified attitude during the difficult times. Herr Ebert expressed the hope that the hour would soon come when all the Rhineland would be free.

PARIS, Oct. 22.—By midnight last night the last French soldier had left the Dortmund-Hoerde zone in the Ruhr.

AIR MAIL TRAILS BLAZED
Army Aviator and Observer Here on Return Flight to East Predict Service for Angel City
(Illustration on Picture Page)
First Lieutenant M. L. Elliott, Air Service, U.S.A., and O. E. Cesare, newspaper and magazine artist, arrived here yesterday by airplane on a tour of the West under auspices of Maj.-Gen. Mason M. Patrick, chief of the Army Air Service. The tour is for the purpose of laying out a route for the western extension of the army air ways system and unofficially to recommend to the Army extensions of the Air Mail Service of the Postoffice Department. Los Angeles, they believe, is destined to be an important point on both the Army and the Postoffice services, which eventually will be considered as one service, not in operation but in use of landing field and filling stations. The two men are stopping at the Hayward Hotel.
Lieut. Elliott, he announces, will recommend that the Army route in the Far West run from San Francisco along the Pacific to Los Angeles and thence along the border to San Antonio, and he also thinks that this border route will be employed sooner or later by the Air Mail Service. He also favors the proposal that Los Angeles has been urging to extend the transcontinental Air Mail Service by running a line from Salt Lake to Los Angeles, which would fly time to the East as San Francisco now has. The present course of the Air Mail Service, over which Mr. Elliott and Mr. Cesare flew, is from New York to San Francisco, and this route across the continent is not likely to be changed, Mr. Elliott thinks, but will be the basis for extensions that will give important communities like Southern California a fast mail service as if they were on the original line.
Mr. Cesare is here in the capacity of a correspondent and artist for his newspaper, the New York Times, and as an unofficial spokesman of the air service. He has done much airplane work, drawing pictures of the romance of flying, which he sketched over the battlefields of Europe in the late war. He has become something of an amateur authority on aeronautics, and the air service administration has permitted him to make the present flight. He will write a series of articles and illustrate them with his impressions of the Far Western field, and his opinions are desired to be of considerable weight with the officials at Washington.
"At first I thought the best way of getting service to the Southwest, which we all understand must have service because of its large population and demand for air mail, was to have a line run from the present route southwest from Chicago," Mr. Cesare said. "But after making the flight, I am convinced that a branch from Salt Lake would be best. In addition to this I think both the air and the Army air ways will have a line from San Francisco along the Coast to Los Angeles and San Diego and thence along the border to San Antonio and thence north to Chicago. Before leaving, they will confer with Mayor Cryer, Postmaster O'Brien and officials of the Chamber of Commerce about the needs of Los Angeles for an air mail service."
"Our experience on the trip has shown that Los Angeles is demanding air mail service with more insistence than any other city," Mr. Cesare says. "You will get what you want and need if you speak loud enough."

SMALL SHOP WINDOWS TO HELP CHEST
Trimmers' Association Artists Will Assist in Arranging Displays
Plans for co-operating with the smaller stores which have no window display artists in arranging a window exhibit for the Community Chest campaign, will be formulated by members of the Los Angeles Window Trimmers' Association this evening at a dinner in the Windsor Tea Room. Frank C. Shoemaker will be the speaker provided by the Chest speakers' bureau on the occasion.
The outlook for the window display to be put on November 6 to 11 in the interest of the Chest campaign is unusually bright, according to Arthur Strassburger, chairman of the window display committee. Larger department stores are to devote windows to a pictorialization of work carried on in a particular Community Chest agency. Other stores throughout the city will carry appropriate exhibits featuring the humanitarian movement being carried on in the city.
On November 8, 10 and 11 floats arranged by the different chest agencies will circulate through the city.
Supporters and friends of the Jewish Ex-Patients' Home will hear the message of the Community Chest on Sunday afternoon, November 2, at Symphony Hall. Dr. William Jules Poll, executive secretary of the Home, has called the meeting and has been allotted $23,935 in the budget.
Norman Macbeth, colonel of the division which will hold the territory bounded by Eighth and Pico streets and Broadway and San Pedro, announced yesterday that his major and captain had secured practically all of their workers and would be able to report a complete team roster Saturday morning.

DATE TO BE SET TODAY FOR QUIZ OF McLAUGHLIN
The County Civil Service Commission will fix a date today for the hearing of charges against D. F. McLaughlin, suspended head of the Outdoor Relief Division of the county department of charities. John Steven, secretary, said yesterday. Supt. Holland of the department still declined yesterday to state the nature of the charges, and said they would not be made public until the hearing.
A. H. White, head of the salvage division, resigned Tuesday as the result of an investigation of the department. Other than to say that the honesty of neither man was questioned, Supt. Holland refused to go into the results of the investigation.

ONE DOLLAR SET AS FAIR SUM IN SLANDER CASE
Wide divergence of opinion as to what it ought to cost Larry A. Cotton to call Frederick H. Maulick "a crook," developed when Maulick's suit against Cotton for slander came on for hearing before Judge Walton J. Wood yesterday.
Cotton thought it shouldn't cost him anything at all. Maulick estimated that $10,000 would be about right. Judge Wood didn't agree with either, but even he was not too sure. First he thought 1 cent might measure the damages in the case. Then he switched to $1. That settled the argument.
Cotton bought a car from Maulick and there was a disagreement over the transaction. He admitted calling Maulick "a crook," but said it was without malice and in the course of "mutual vituperation."

POPULATION FIGURED
Hollywood Vote Register Estimate Sets Figure at 122,296
Using figures obtained from the County Registrar's office, officials of the Hollywood Chamber of Commerce yesterday estimated the population of Hollywood at 122,296. This total was obtained by multiplying the number of registered voters, 27,799, by three and one-half, the commonly accepted ratio of registered voters to registered residents. This factor is used by the County Registrar of voters in figuring population approximations.
Chamber officials calculated that if Hollywood were a separate municipality, it would rank fourth in the State of California. The estimate of 122,296 is said to be conservative.

WOMAN ACCUSED IN SUIT TO BREAK WILL
Charges that the late Phillip N. Brown was influenced unduly by Mrs. Dora Heady, when he made his will, were contained in a contest over his $15,000 estate filed yesterday by his sister, Martha A. Caron and Jennie Castle, who said Mrs. Heady used protestations of love to bend him to her will. Brown was 50 years of age, and was said to have lived in Mrs. Heady's home. He bequeathed $100 each to his sisters and the residue of his estate to Mrs. Heady.

CITY LOSES TWO ARROYO ACTIONS

Rock and Gravel Company is Victor in Suits

Interference Restrained by Court's Decision

More Testimony to be Heard in Third Case

The Los Angeles Rock and Gravel Company was the victor in two of three suits involving the right of the company to excavate in the bed of the Arroyo Seco, when Judge McLucas handed down a decision in Superior Court yesterday restraining the city from interfering with the company in the execution of its work in the arroyo.

Further action on a third suit, instituted by the city for abatement of the excavating on the ground it constituted a nuisance, was continued to Monday, the court announcing it was open to hear additional testimony on this matter.

Judge McLucas's decision ended a trial of two of the three cases that has extended over a period of six weeks. Both of the suits decided were filed in behalf of the rock and gravel company, and asked that the city be enjoined from interfering with the excavating work in the arroyo and also from enforcing two ordinances asserted to have been designed to prohibit the excavating.

The court held the ordinances to be unconstitutional on the ground that they were confiscatory in measure. Judge McLucas stated that under a Supreme Court ruling excavating of private property could be regulated but not prohibited. The company based its suits on assertions that the ordinances were illegal in that they were designed to deprive a corporation of its property without due process of law or compensation.

Two other suits, one asking that the company be restrained from excavating in the beds of streets abutting the arroyo, the other asking that the city be enjoined from destroying a railroad operated by the company in the arroyo, are now awaiting trial. C. H. Mattingly, attorney for the company, said he expected an early settlement of the issues in these cases.

"NO PARKING" VICTORY WILL BE CELEBRATED

The satisfactory termination of the fight to establish morning "no parking" hours will be celebrated today by the Los Angeles Restaurant Association which will entertain officers of the Downtown Association in conference room No. 5, the Biltmore, at 5:30 o'clock. President C. C. Colyear and Managing Director John L. Butler, who will answer inquiries regarding its enforcement.

THE NEW

IN STORES AND HOMES

NOVELTIES, IDEAS AND PRACTICAL SUGGESTIONS

By Olive Gray

Up-to-date:

The Gate Top Bag, outcome of the recently popularized Turn-key handbag is a recent innovation. In the new bag, the turn-key is located at the top of the aperture, which enfolds magically into the interior of the bag, thus usually inhabiting the feminine hand-carry-all. The secret "turn" of the key, makes for safety first and for distinction both first and last.

Leopard Spots

With the popularity of leopard skin, comes its simulation in the form of fabric—this time in filmy resemblance to chiffon. For lining wraps this is a decided improvement over the heavier weaves. The coloring is perfect—it would almost deceive the "paw" himself and its pliability renders it most valuable for interior decoration of coats and cloaks. Allowed to peep over an edge, folded over a heavier or piping, this chiffon leopard is excellent.

Why the Delay?

I wonder why manufacturers do not consult more effectively? Come a new color for dress and military. Say, for example, Tiltan. It is upon the counters, in silk, in velvet, in wool materials and the unwary purchaser by the yardage, then comes the search for linings, for sewing silks, for trimmings. The "no we haven't it" the narrow-minded which will not do, become a burden to the distracted shopper. Next season, when the first flush of novelty is gone, one finds a surplusage of accessories in the long-sought-for shade.

Super Corduroys

Never were corduroys so lovely, nor the fabric so velvety, as in the corduroys of now. Not a tint, nor a fraction of a shading, which may not be found in these weaves so soft and durable. For morning coats; for jackets; for children's school dresses; for—oh for many, many purposes, corduroy holds its very own, season after season, and always it continues to improve its effectiveness. The new weaves come not alone in stripes or wales, both wide and narrow, but in blocks, both large and small and in basketlike effects.

Ostrich Fringe

Fringes of ostrich fluff adorn many of the new gowns and find an honored place in edging tunics. Colors more alluring than ever before, shown, add further to the value of this frilly trimming.

Queer Pockets

Pockets, in order to hold their things—and something besides, perhaps—must be unusual in design and placement. An odd fad in this line is the double-pocketed, in which one pocket shows upon a tailored dress of recent importation.

THE LAST WORD.
BY ALMA WHITAKER

STARVING FOR BEAUTY

Starving for beauty!

That isn't just a pretty metaphor—women really are these days. Fashion's urgent decree is that the female form divine must be slim and straight, "the boyish figure," almost to the point of emaciation—and it can't be done by satisfying a healthy appetite.

Alas, how times have changed. As a small girl I surprised many a blushing maiden's secret when I intruded in sacred precincts and marked the presence of adjustable busts and hips. Those were the days in which masculinity waxed enthusiastic about what they were quite apt to term "a damnable woman," a lady with an ample bust, a pinched waist, and generously mobile hips.

Happy the lot of the plump beauty then—calories meant nothing in her care-free life. It was the skinny dame who had to resort to artificial padding, and "eat for beauty" or forever languish in admiration of the lordly sex.

I traveled up in Africa in those days and the Boer Fraus were ladies of massive beauty—300 pounds was the average for a prize charmer. They used to undress once a week—an exacting operation—and had little ladders to get into bed with.

One of our hostesses on a Boer farm measured twenty inches round the waist below the elbows, an inch more than my mother's.

She was sorry for my emaciated mamma—although even my mamma measured thirty-eight around the bust and forty round the hips—positively fat for now.

Each point was neatly rounded the bust and forty round the hips—positively fat for now. Squeezing them into the smallest, flattest possible space with harsh rubber contraptions, but are destined.

The two points not quite meeting,

nearly bound with self-material of the dress—or was it with a silken bra?

Fur O' Wool

Furry collars of neck-hugging height and inexpressible warmth, attach to the newest sweaters. These collars, which seem like peltry from some strange animal trapped in truth fashioned from wool and are in the shade identical with the yarn from which the sweater is knitted.

La Mode's Commendation

Umbrellas grow stubbier and chunkier. A pleasing combination is fawn and brown. One's scarf may be of silk crepe edged with fur.

Rose-ochre shades are excellent in chiffon frocks. The headscarf or spangled tunic frock is featured.

Shades of copper and dull rose are good for the evening. Collars and jabots on black velvet frocks are of real lace.

One wears a kid gardenia with the dark street costume. A trimming note of rare charm is the use of fine old lace.

The choker necklace of silver beads is a fad of interest. Low wide girdles of black suede or patent leather are smart.

Black and white is always effective and is as smart as ever. Two-piece jacquette frocks of wool crepe have pleated skirts.

A charming coat of Malay-brown suede-cloth is colored in beaver.

NEW YORKERS MEET TONIGHT

Dr. George MacNeill, president of the New York contingent, has planned a program for the meeting this evening in the Disabled Veterans' Hall, 244 South Hill street, to include comedy singing, roll call of counties, awarding of prizes, and Scotch songs and dances by Evelyn Adams. Miss Adams will also give her prize essay on the Constitution. After the entertainment there will be dancing.

Business Openings
throughout Southern California

A year-old Los Angeles manufacturing concern has outgrown its present factory and new capital is needed for expansion—the owner of a neighborhood grocery wants a partner—a thriving little fruit stand along the highway is for sale—called East, the proprietor of a drug store is compelled to sell his business—a bakery in Santa Barbara seeks a new owner—a jeweler in San Diego offers a well established business. Openings such as these and hundreds of others are constantly advertised in the "Business Opportunities" columns of the Los Angeles.

By reading Times' "Business Opportunities" the prospective buyer covers the Southland. He achieves the same thing as though he traveled thousands of miles searching the community for openings.

ANSWERS TO MOTHERS

Children's Diseases

"Dear Doctor: I have a healthy little daughter of 10, who has never had the 'children' diseases. I believe it is due to cleanliness of her hands and nose and mouth. I think it is an old-fashioned theory that children must have such diseases. Am I right?" Mrs. C.

Yes, I do repeat again and again, Mrs. C. Naturally, I have to exhaust the things I can talk on in a newspaper column after a certain period and have to begin all over again. I cannot go into a subject in a newspaper column as I do in my book. I will try to bring out other points that I did not cover the first time. Thank you for letting me know how much help you have received. Poles are sweeter when you can smell 'em.

Colic

Mrs. J.: Colic in the baby most often means indigestion. Too much or too little food or improper foods. Irregular feeding and constipation are frequent causes. Tight abdominal binders are another cause. For the attack, give a little quite hot water, and give a warm enema. Massage abdomen gently, and band the baby's knees up on the abdomen; apply hot cloths.

Address your letters to me in care of this paper. Make them as brief as possible, not over 500 words, and type or write them legibly with ink. Please sign your name as you appear in the paper. VENUE CHANGE GIVEN

Herbert Wilson Co-Defendant to Be Tried by Judge James

Federal Judge Bledsoe yesterday granted a change of venue to Joseph Bertache, co-defendant with Herbert Wilson on mail robbery charges, and Bertache will be tried in Federal Judge James' court on the latter's return from the East.

Petition for the change was filed by Otto Christensen, chief counsel for Bertache and other defendants, indicted for implication in the Wilson mail robberies, several days ago, the plea being based on statements asserted to have been made by the judge regarding several of the defendants. Judge Bledsoe denied that he had any feeling in the case, but declared that he would grant the petition if it was made in good faith.

Please Repeat

"Dear friend: I have been advised since your wonderful advice since your articles started, and I have been greatly benefited by them, especially where my children are concerned. I only wish you had your advice a few years ago and my oldest child would be stronger. At any rate, my 'year old' is reaping the benefit of your advice and knowledge, so it always makes me feel the other one would have had a better chance if I had had the same assistance. Please repeat lots of your health hints, because, with all caution, I are demanded from Cornelius Vanderbilt Jr., local publisher, in a breach of contract suit filed in Superior Court yesterday by Warren Wheaton.

It is charged by Wheaton that he entered into contract with Vanderbilt on August 25, 1922, to act as news manager of the latter's news syndicate for one year at a salary of $85 a week. The contract was amended on November 15, 1922, and his salary increased to $100 a week. Wheaton sets forth, however, he was dismissed from his position on April 14, 1923. Wheaton declares, and asks $1900 damages as reimbursement of the money due him under the contract.

At Pierre's and Sherry's and the other smart Park Avenue restaurants one sees frocks of pale French gray silk crepe, the smart Reboaux felt hat, plain pumps, simpler gloves and even sheerer stockings.

RAY is the new color, so new that it is scarcely fashionable and also because it is a new yet general and popular. It is seen in taupe, moose and stone gray occasionally, but the smartest shade is the very clear and delicate French shade.

POLA'S NEW LEAD
EDDIE LOWE TO DO HONORS
IN "EAST OF SUEZ"
By Grace Kingsley
Edmund Lowe took time enough away from his Fox picture and his golf, the other day, to slip over to the Lasky studio and let Pola Negri look him over as a prospective leading man for her next picture. It took just one glance for him to see that Mr. Lowe should be her next professional affinity. Wherefore, the young leading man, smiling broadly, lost no time in affixing his name to the dotted line.
The picture is "East of Suez," a Basculi Walsh production. Work of filming commenced Tuesday. The story is from a play by Somerset Maugham, adapted by Sada Cowan.
Noah Beery is the only other member of the all-star cast so far selected, and he has a very important role. Mr. Beery, however, is going to give his whiskers a rest, and will appear with a smooth-shaven face. No the rest of the sheiks had better look out.
Edmund Lowe has been progressing rapidly of late, having played numerous important parts, including leads in the Fox production of "The Fool," the Ince picture, "Barbara Fritchie," and more recently an important part in a picture directed by Denison Clift. Now his selection from among practically all the leading men in Hollywood to act as Pola Negri's leading man is distinctly a new feather in his already well-adorned hat.

ALMA RUBENS WILL
STAR IN FOX FILM
Due to the illness of her mother, Alma Rubens has given up plans to do a picture in Europe and instead is hurrying to New York to bring her mother out here. While in Gotham she plans to see five of the season's new offerings on the legitimate stage.
Immediately upon return Miss Rubens will begin her new offerings. She has signed with William Fox to play the famous part of Maxine, the dancer in "The Dancers." Gerald Du Maurier's novel and play—the sensation of the London last theatrical season post-George O'Brien will portray Tony, the role in which Du Maurier appeared himself in the stage presentation.
The remainder of the cast has not yet been announced. Emmett Flynn, who will direct, has been working on plans for the production for some time and expects that several months of intensive labor will be required to complete this fascinating and extravagant drama.

Patry Gets Great Role
Patry Ruth Miller and St. Louis are disappointed. Patry Ruth planned a full week's sojourn in New York City. Frank Lloyd advanced the starting date of his present superfeature, "Judgment," and hence her visit was cut to seven hours.
Her role in Lloyd's second picture since "The Sea Hawk" is the biggest of her short screen career. As Judy Brewster of May Edgerton's story, Patry Ruth will play the leading feminine role opposite Antonio Moreno. Her characterization particularly fitting to her charming type.
While in New York, in less than seven weeks she carried the lead in two pictures made there: "His Woman" and "Those Who Judge," directed by Whitman Bennett and Burton King, respectively. Her mother accompanied her on this trip.

Pauline Garon Coming Home
Having had enough of foreign sightseeing, Pauline Garon is returning to the warm—or at least pretty warm—heart of the film colony in Hollywood. She is scheduled to arrive here on Saturday following an absence of nearly a year.
Not solely on pleasure bent did Miss Garon depart from these shores. She went abroad to play in pictures, and she had a star part in "What the Butler Saw," a production made in London, and in "Gaiety," a German picture made in Berlin.
Evidently those foreigners look upon Miss Garon as an international favorite, for she had a chance to make the set complete by doing a star role for a French company, but she got homesick, she writes, and so refused to remain abroad.

Peggy's Husband Comes Along
Finding the separation was just more than two devoted people ought to have to bear, Peggy Wood, star of "The Clinging Vine," expects to rush his return from the Playhouse, and her husband, John Weaver, literary editor of the Eagle, are to be reunited.
Mr. Weaver has taken a vacation, and is on his way home. There is more than a possibility that in as much as Miss Wood is to remain in the West to appear in "The Clinging Vine," she will be reunited with her husband.

REAL POLA RETURNS
LUBITSCH BRINGS OUT BEST IN HER TALENT
By Edwin Schallert
Risque; racy; and racy—daringly, decoratively racy is "Forbidden Paradise," but it is not the first time that Pola Negri has brought Pola Negri back to the summit once again, the real Pola Negri.
Even the reign of Gloria Swanson as a premiere idol of smart plays may be threatened by the new Carina that Pola has shown herself to be in her new picture, since it opened yesterday at Grauman's Million Dollar Theatre.
There is only one director for her, that is proven in this production—and that director is Ernst Lubitsch. Together they have turned out the chief of the new style for the nouveau sophisticated entertainment that has for its objective mirth and merriment-making.
Not for Puritans might perhaps, be written in large letters across the title sheet of "Forbidden Paradise." Only for the worldly wise might be inscribed as its dedication.
But at the same time, in its devices, its cleverness, it must be recognized as one of the truly great individual achievements in cinematographing of the situation and effects and aristocratic exaggeration, even by those who may not altogether approve of its theme and sentiment, or more particularly its lack thereof.
Of course, as you may probably know, "Forbidden Paradise" is based on the stage play, "The Carina," that had a vogue in New York last season, and which Doris Keane has on various occasions been expected to bring before audiences here. It is reputedly the story of Catherine the Great, the wily if supposedly wilful Empress who exerted as regal and amorous allure for the man who surrounded her in her court as she did over the great domain of her Czarism.
In the adaptation by Agnes Christine Johnson and Hans Kraly, the characterization has been somewhat modernized and the setting transferred to a mythical realm, but because I use the word "mythical" do not imagine that this picture is of the same genre as "The Love Story," "Long Live the King," and such other potpourris of sentiment.
This is much more realistic, even if it is the lightest sort of comedy. You don't have to invent the atmosphere, nor the politics, nor even bother about the setting in the instance of most of the other—and cream-puff type of—stories. The atmosphere and the quality of realism, albeit it is a decadent realism, infuse themselves elsewhere into the play, and that is due no doubt to the fine detail both in background and dress that obtain in the film itself. "Forbidden Paradise" is doubly worth while because there is nothing obvious or garish about its inventiveness.
To my mind, the most remarkable thing is that Pola, who has never been associated in the mind of admirers with aught except somewhat gypsy-like characters can so easily transform herself into proper direction into a queenly personage.
Of course, a Blavie queen is not a queen of Great Britain or France or Italy, or any country very probably fulfill none of these more austere and dignified requirements so naturally, but with storms and a d tempests surging through the veins of a queenly personality that she portrays, she actually does become royally radiant.
Every moment, too, she is an actress of the most astonishing prescience. Indeed, it is not too much to say that she is greater than she ever has been, and the fact that she has gained through her American association is now definitely indicated, since she has once again played in a film made by the man who directed her biggest successes before she came to this country.
I cannot declare any less fine, however, the interpretation of the role of Catherine the Great, the interpretation to the whole story. What he does really enlightens the audience as to the most daring situations that confront the romantic intrigues of the Empress as she serves as Chancellor.
His exit from the Carina's quarters after the first scene, toward the end of the picture—is one of the most memorable bits of acting that has recently been done in pictures.
Rod La Rocque has advanced again—his biggest gain, too, since "The Two Commandments." He is truly splendid as the rough-and-ready soldier totally devoid of guile, who falls victim to the wiles of the woman whom he was endeavoring, to the best of his ambitious youthful ability, to protect as a queen. He doesn't marry her either at the ending, which is one of the many gratifying things about the picture. Knowing the movies as he does, I could almost have entertained the suspicion for a while that he would, despite that Lubitsch himself, is not addicted to such finality.
Of the other I can only remark briefly. Pauline Starke has been the most obviously sympathetic role and does this well. Fred Malatesta, Nick De Ruiz and Mrs. A. J. Almy, and even the minor principals and bit players, especially in the episode where the officers entertain the queen's favorite at an all-too-jovial stag party, offer noteworthy portrayals.
The only picture to which "Forbidden Paradise" is in the least akin is "The Sign of the Cross," not only in respect to the light treatment of aristocracy. "Forbidden Paradise" is far and away Lubitsch's picture, a most amusing picture in this country, and it is Pola's best triumph to date.

Local Attractions
Grace Gordon is in the cast of "The Clinging Vine" at the Playhouse, and Percy Marmont appears in "The Clean Heart" at the Mission next week.

GRAVEURE'S FAREWELL
Baritone Offers Second Recital at Philharmonic Tonight
No singer before the public today is so noted for arranging varied and interesting programs as Louis Graveure, the baritone who will appear tonight at the Philharmonic Auditorium under L. E. Behrman's local management.
Last week's audience which filled the auditorium, heard a program of unconventional selection and a wide variety of sharply contrasted moods, which he convincingly expounded.
Mr. Graveure has steadily gained in artistic power since he first made himself known here, and his singing is always a source of great enjoyment. His repertoire covers over 100 songs in French, German, Italian and English and he is in constant touch with important American composers to introduce new songs to the public by them.
Tonight's program has been selected with artistic manner and contains a number of English, French, German and Irish folk-songs. In addition to that, Arpad Sender, his masterful accompanist will play during the evening Brahms' "Intermezzo" and Dohnany's "Rhapsodie in C Major."

"FIRST YEAR" SUNDAY
"Hear Car" in Last Week of Majestic Theater Engagement
The run of "The Hear Car" at the Majestic Theater will come to a standstill Saturday night and beginning with the matinee performance on Sunday afternoon, Thomas Willmet will present "The First Year," the comedy success, "The First Year."
The play, as described by its author, Frank Craven, is a comic tragedy of married life, and was presented at the Mason about a year ago with the author in the principal role. It will no doubt be welcomed by playgoers.
With the presentation "The First Year" will come the first appearance with the Majestic players as leading lady. She comes here with an enviable reputation both for her ability and personality.

CONSTANCE TALMADGE
HERE AGAIN SATURDAY
Constance Talmadge in her latest comedy effort, "Her Night of Romance," a breezy, sparkling, exquisitely delicate story, comes to Loew's State Theater Saturday.
"Her Night of Romance" tells the story of a flapper heiress of New York and London who is pursued by dozens of suitors. It is a sophisticated comedy-drama of a highly restless American heiress—she who has a most amusing series of marital adventures.
Ronald Colman, Constance's new leading man, recently finished work in "Tarnish for First National." He appeared as Lillian Gish's leading man in "The White Sister," and played with both Gish and Colman in "Romola," which was made in Italy.

"ABRAHAM LINCOLN"
RUNS ANOTHER WEEK
The success of "Abraham Lincoln" at the Criterion Theater has caused the management to hold the picture over for another week so that the many requests for additional time to view this pictorialization of the martyred President's life from hundreds of people may be granted. Accordingly, the last performance of "Abraham Lincoln" will not take place until Friday night, the 31st inst., and on Saturday, November 1, Harold Bell Wright's "The Mine With the Iron Door" will have its Los Angeles premiere.

FOREMAN FIGHTS BURGLAR PAIR

Blow on Head Stops Battle Against Odds

Yegmen Escape But Secure No Loot

(EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH)

RIVERSIDE, Oct. 22.—Until struck on the head with the butt of a gun by a third assailant, P. M. Millard, warehouse foreman of the M. F. Johnson Company, late last night successfully fought off two men who attacked him in the dark back room of the warehouse on Pachapha avenue and Ninth street and probably foiled a robbery of the wholesale grocery store.

Wriggling out of the wires, with which the marauders bound him to heavy scales, Millard a few minutes later called the police by telephone, but a quick response and a careful search of the industrial district had no results.

Attracted to the back room by a noise he heard, Millard was working late at his office, fumbled his way into the dark interior unsuspecting of burglars. As he entered, two men leaped at him. Millard gave battle, using his fists, he countered, and in a few minutes had backed the two men against the wall.

At that moment a third man entered the room and struck Millard, who was sitting on the floor. The men then bound him with wire to heavy scales in the back room. Apparently frightened, however, they gave up whatever plans they had and left the place, the police believe, in an automobile.

KIDNAPED, ATTACKED, GIRL SAYS

Found on Lonely Road, She Says Man Forced Her to Get Into Auto

By a "Times" Staff Correspondent
VENICE, Oct. 22.—A story by Jean Daugherty, 17 years of age, cashier in a Los Angeles restaurant, that she had been kidnaped, attacked and thrown out of an automobile at a lonely spot on Del Rey, set police of the Bay District and of Los Angeles to searching today for a dark stranger, apparently of foreign birth, as her assailant.

The girl was taken to Martin's Sanatorium at Santa Monica, where she became too hysterical to give assistance to the police in their search, or give many details about herself.

She was found, semiconscious and moaning, early today by J. Cronin, a Venice real estate operator, who called the police. Between noon and 1 p.m. she had been taken to a street car in Los Angeles, she could not give the location, and was almost immediately seized and dragged into a coupe by the stranger. He drove her to a lonely spot, attacked her, and then turned her car to Del Rey where he tossed her out unceremoniously and drove on. At the time she swooned and became hysterical.

MUST PAY NOTE

RAIN OR NO RAIN

(EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH)
HANFORD, Oct. 22.—The amount of rainfall on a farmer's ranch can not invalidate the farmer's note for life insurance despite a verbal understanding to the contrary, decided Judge Short in the Superior Court here yesterday.

Jonas Vick, Corcoran rancher, gave a promissory note on March 6, last, to Gus G. Riles for $216, made to bearer, with the understanding that if within two months two inches of rain did not fall on Vick's ranch the note was to be invalid.

One and eighty-eight hundredths inches fell, Vick claimed the note invalid and Peck sued him in the Justice Court at Corcoran, securing judgment. Judge Short, while retaining the decision of the lower court, held that rainfall was not the consideration for the note but the policy was.

THING OF THE PAST

(EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH)
RIVERSIDE, Oct. 22.—The bottom has dropped out of an asserted La Follette boom in the San Geronimo Pass and Coachella Valley country, S. W. Tate, chairman of the Democratic Central Committee, and L. "We took special pains to investigate the La Follette strength, and we found it wanting," Lackey declared. Visiting the editorial offices of five newspapers, the Democratic campaigners found that the Banner, Beaumont and Coachella newspaper owners are of the opinion that the La Follette boom has fallen flat.

DENIES CHARGES OF 'OPEN TOWN'

Mayor Says Gambling is Not Commercialized Here

Political Ambitions Seen Back of Complaints

Statement Follows Allan Plea to Police Commission

Mayor Cryer yesterday replied to the "open town" charge of Councilman Allan with the declaration that there is no commercialized gambling in Los Angeles. However, the Mayor said, it must be remembered that it is a simple matter for a man to start a gambling game on five minutes' notice.

Councilman Allan yesterday addressed the Police Commission protesting against gambling conditions in the city as disclosed by the gun play in the establishment conducted by "Farmer" Page, a nationally known gambler, last Sunday night.

The Mayor, who earlier in the discussion aroused by the gambling exposures, said he would "keep hands off the police department," gave his statement when Councilman Allan's letter to the Police Commission was brought to his attention.

Mayor Cryer's statement in full follows:

The Police Commission is keenly interested in the enforcement of the laws relating to vice and gambling, as well as those against violent crime.

We welcome co-operation and constructive criticism in our work. Helpful suggestions, offered in good faith, with a view to bettering conditions, rather than to serve political purposes, will always be most welcome.

We have placed at the head of our police department a man who secured a very high Civil Service rating, and whose personal character, zeal and ability will scarcely be questioned.

He has the hearty endorsement of his predecessor, as the man best fitted to head the department. He has declared, in an official statement to his staff, that his policy is and will be one of vigorous law enforcement—that while he is Chief, "the lid will never be even slightly tilted."

The Police Commission is giving him the utmost freedom in carrying out his policy, and in extending every co-operation within its power.

It will welcome any constructive suggestion, and any effort to do so to enhance a program of law enforcement.

The Chief has challenged anyone to place a place where open gambling is being conducted in Los Angeles. To date that challenge has not been met.

No police department on earth could reasonably be expected to prevent all burglaries or murders.

The fact that occasional gangster activity should not be made the basis for destructive criticism, which has a tendency to impair the efficiency of the department, and to destroy its morale.

As the time for holding a municipal election approaches, and these with political axes to grind, always find much to criticize in municipal affairs.

Personally I have a great deal of confidence in our present Chief of Police, and I have a great deal of confidence in Chief Vollmer during his administration. I believe that Vollmer was a splendid executive and had accomplished a great deal in Los Angeles in putting the department on a better business basis and in a position to more efficiently handle the crime situation.

JURORS BARRED AT TRIAL

Contempt Proceedings May Follow Halting of Wilson and McCormack Robbery Case

Citations for contempt of court probably will follow the trial of Carey Wilson and Clifford McCormack, former private detective, on charges of robbery, it was indicated yesterday by Superior Judge Arthur Keetch, following the dismissal of ten members of the jury panel who had received copies of a magazine containing an article favorable to the defense of Wilson.

Through Keetch's statement came the news that Patrick Kirby, Wilson's attorney, and Wilson, had obtained the entire list containing the names and addresses of jurors on the present panel. Kirby told Judge Keetch that so far as he knew Wilson had never been in possession of this list, although he admitted he consulted his client with reference to it.

In dismissing the ten members of the panel for the time that Judge Keetch stated he was doing so in the interests of justice.

After the dismissal of the members of the panel, selection of the jury was continued and out of the proceedings Miss Oliphant was an interested spectator.

McCormack claims to be a private investigator, and admitted, according to Dep. Dist. Atty. Frick, as the prosecution, that he engaged in the two robberies for which he is indicted with Wilson in order to obtain information of the murder of Joseph Langley, manager of the Alvarado Theater, McCormack was the principal witness at the trial of Godfrey Cowdry, at which the latter was convicted of Langley's murder during the trial.

Another portion of the article declared that "Carey Wilson wrote and predicted a precise and accurate account of the robbery, and that he was in the most unfavorable circumstances."

Those who believed the boy innocent volunteered to engage an attorney for his next trial, and the judge, who printed, "as the court and some of the jurors seemed to hold it against him that he did not have one."

Miss Oliphant also wrote, "Later, while deliberating in the jury room one of the twelve tried to explain his vote of conviction reminded us of his friendly standing with the District Attorney, and his complete knowledge of the case, though, when becoming a juror, he had sworn that he knew nothing about the case, and that type of juror is hard to explain."

The trial will be resumed today and it is expected that the jury will take a recess during the morning session. Wilson is represented by Patrick Kirby, while McCormack is represented by Arthur Keetch and Edwin Irwin represent McCormack.

When it was ascertained that a number of the members of the jury panel had received and read copies of the magazine, Judge Keetch adjourned court and opened a preliminary investigation.

Miss Oliphant, who was in court, was called and sworn. She admitted writing the article headed "On the Jury" in her magazine, and which dealt specifically with the Carey Wilson trial. She told the court that she had sent a copy of the magazine to all of the members of the old jury panel, and to every judge of the Superior courts of the county, but denied that she knowingly mailed any of the copies to members of the present jury panel.

Following a short address by Dr. Von Kleinsmid, the ceremony was continued by the girls club of the University Club, who presented plans for the future which promised to make the university campus one of the most beautiful and popular in the country.

President Von Kleinsmid, who presided at the ceremony, also thanked the women members of the university for their efforts in the building of the new women's building.

Deputy Sheriff Dewar departed last night for Wray, Colo., where he will hunt for Ray B. Remington, who, with Edward Shovin, was indicted here, Tuesday, for the robbery of the First National Bank of Wray, where the latter part of the Colorado city.

The buildings as we mailed up the "harbor," he explained. "I don't have any skycrapers in San Francisco, but I have a 'canyon of Wall Street' even more astonishing than Grand Canyon, which I visited on my trip west."

He also expressed his admiration for American girls, stating that he had seen a greater number of beautiful young ladies in the United States than in any other country where he had traveled.

"I can't say I am much struck with the style of bobbing the hair that has gained such a vogue among our American women," however, observed the Prince. "That's a very ancient style in our country, but it is followed only among your aristocratic women of the aristocracy wear long hair."

Siamese is an independent kingdom with an area about equal to that of California, its population is 10,000,000. Rama VI, brother of the Prince, is one of the ex-territorial monarchs that still remain in the world. The present royal house has been in power for the last 150 years.

The habit of saving is a power of tremendous importance. Capital employed in industry is simply accumulated savings.

Referring to his impressions of this country, Prince Pratrijok stated that he believed the New York skyline had impressed him more than anything else he had observed here.

"I was amazed at the height of the buildings as we mailed up the 'harbor,'" he commented. "I don't have any skycrapers in San Francisco, but I have a 'canyon of Wall Street' even more astonishing than Grand Canyon, which I visited on my trip west."

CITY CLUB IS CHRISTENED

First Meeting in New Building Largely Attended; Formal Opening Saturday Evening

With 500 members and friends attending, the first meeting of the City Club in the new building at 523 Bourse Spring street was conducted in the spacious dining-room yesterday with a banquet followed by a program of music and addresses.

The meeting was presided over by Marshall Stimson, vice-president of the club, who congratulated the members on the completion of their new home and paid a special tribute of praise to C. A. Dykstra, the secretary, for the part Mr. Dykstra has played in establishing the club in its new quarters.

At the opening of the meeting the audience stood in silence for a minute out of respect to the memory of Frank Wiggins, who, according to the words of Mr. Stimson, "was the living embodiment of the progressive spirit of Los Angeles."

The completion of the club building, which is the development of the City Club during the last seventeen years has been well abreast of the growth of Los Angeles. That Mrs. Stimson was able to complete its fine new building without incurring a load of debt is a tribute to her ability and her place in the organization in a strong position to contribute more largely than in the past to the general welfare of our civic life.

The dining-room, with its splendid acoustic features and notable for the ventilation arrangements, was one of the finest in Los Angeles. The room is seventy by fifty feet, exclusive of the galleries on three sides of the hall.

Next Friday at noon the luncheon program will include a community sing and special musical numbers by Miss Edith C. Deput and the City Club Quartet. The formal opening of the new building will be conducted next Saturday evening with a dinner at 6 p.m., although the club will be open to members and their friends all day Saturday. Among the speakers invited to address the club members Saturday evening are Gov. Richardson, Chief Justice H. W. Hahn, Mayor C. R. Smith, prominent citizens of the State and Los Angeles.

A Halloween party has been arranged for the evening of October 31st, and on the evening of November 4, there will be a special dinner for the club members, enabling members to hear the returns from the election as they come in from various parts of the country.

REDLANDS GIVES
RADIO PROGRAMChamber Presents Musicians to KHJ ListenersMadrigal Quartet Feature of Evening BillAnother Lecture on Music
Delivered at Matinee

BY CLAUDE FORBES CRANE

From 8 to 10 o'clock last evening the Redlands Chamber of Commerce, A. E. Isham, secretary, presented a program over KHJ, Redlands is a community which is rapidly forging to the front in the new movement for music for the people. Its community sing under guidance of Mrs. Grace Mullen is one of the most spectacular sights this country has to offer in community movements and every two weeks an artist program is presented to which the people are invited free of charge.

Last night the Madrigal Quartet, Miss Smith, soprano; Mrs. P. B. Haabrouck, contralto; Mrs. Ruth Cramer, alto, and Mrs. A. B. Foster, accompanist and leader, gave great pleasure to Redlands. Harold Scott, violinist; Karl Kuehne, clarinet; Prof. Oida, bird calls and baritone, and Frances Mullen, pianist, completed the program. Frances Mullen is one of the most gifted of the Southland's young pianists. A pupil of Olga Steinhilber, she has built a marvelous foundation on which to erect a statue of the highest type of pianistic art.

MOVIE LECTURE

On the matinee program Carolyn Pearson, head of the musical activities of the Southern California Music Company, gave another one of her interesting and instructive lectures on music. With her, as assisting artist, was Ruth May Shaffer, soprano, accompanied by Frances May Martin. Miss Shaffer sang a group of exquisite songs and her rendition of Rachmaninoff's "The Siberian Night" was notable for its suppressed intensity.

The noon program presented the Rose Room orchestra playing through the courtesy of the Rose Room, William Leder, manager. This orchestra is one of the special favorites at KHJ. Today from 5:30 to 6:15 they will give a special program in honor of President Coolidge's address.

BOY REPORTER

The children's program brought Dick Winslow, boy reporter, who went on an assignment for Uncle John to the Orphans' Home on El Centro street. Dick asked each one of his radio brothers and sisters to send a jar of jam or marmalade to the orphanage so that rainy winter nights all the little children can have jam on their bread.

Myrtle Jacobs, 12-year-old pianist, an exceedingly gifted child, played a Chopin Nocturne and the Rachmaninoff C sharp minor Prelude. Miss Jeanette Hitchen, 6-year-old reader, pupil of Marshall Stedman, had a good time with Uncle John in front of the microphone.

Whenever our State editor, Burton Smith, comes up to KHJ we are sure that Radioland is going to hear something really clever. He is fast becoming a favorite speaker here and last night he gave a talk about "Bear Hunting" worthy of O. Henry.

WORLD FUNNY; TRIES TO DIE

Former Oil Operator, Divorced, Swallows Poison in Canyon Cabin; He May Recover

"It is a funny world and I guess we must be funny with it," wrote Elbert O. Orchard, former oil operator and reputed wealthy, at dawn yesterday just before he drained a vial of poison in a cabin at Las Flores Canyon. He was found unconscious and hurried in an ambulance to the Santa Monica Emergency Hospital where Police Surgeon Weaver, after administering treatment, said he may recover.

Orchard's wife, Mrs. Lucille Orchard, was granted an interlocutory degree of divorce a year ago today.

"Capt." Jack Henry, owner of the cabins at the canyon mouth, discovered Orchard unconscious at 8 a. m. Orchard was lying on a bed clad in pajamas and an overcoat. An empty vial that had contained poison was on dresser and another empty vial was on the floor. Henry called to J. T. Newell, 138 West Seventeenth street, who has a cabin nearby and dispatched him to Santa Monica for an ambulance. After receiving emergency treatment Orchard was removed to the Martin Sanatorium at Santa Monica.

"I talked to Orchard when he came to the cabin Tuesday," said Mr. Newell. "He seemed very despondent and told me he had come out to get away from people and from the city and to be alone so he could rest and think. He said he expected to stay over night and return to Los Angeles in the morning."

Orchard left three sealed letters, addressed respectively to his mother, Mrs. Belle Orchard, 3813 West Twenty-first street, to his attorney, Lyndol L. Young in the Pacific Mutual Building, and the last to a friend out of the city.

There also was a note left to Jack Henry which read:

"Please see that this suit case and its contents are delivered to mother or Fern. Sorry to disturb you but it is a funny world and I guess we must be funny with it."

The note was signed "Bert."

Orchard and his wife figured considerably in the public news subsequent to 1919, beginning in February of that year, when Mrs. Orchard was accused of shooting him during a quarrel after returning from an automobile ride with a man after a visit to the home of Barney Oldfield. The bullet entered Orchard's head. He recovered and refused to prefer any charge against her.

In September of the same year Mrs. Orchard returned to her apartment at 1028 Orange street from a shopping trip and was found and gagged by a bandit who had secreted himself there. She was robbed of $1200 in cash and jewelry valued at $20,000.

After this episode her name was involved with that of Graham Polk, clerk in a fashionable resort hotel at Excelsior Springs, Mo. The clerk was quoted as stating he had married Mrs. Orchard and that they had spent a brief honeymoon in Kansas City. Mrs. Orchard denied rumors of the affair.

In her divorce suit against Orchard, Mrs. Orchard charged that liquor had ruined their married life, that he drank almost continuously and was extremely jealous, the asserted jealousy centering on her son, Winston Durkin, by a former marriage.

A friend yesterday said that Orchard was still madly in love with Mrs. Orchard and was distressed over failure of efforts to effect a reconciliation.

Santa Monica police said they learned that Orchard had attempted to shoot himself before taking poison and that the revolver had jammed.

MAN SAYS HE MARRIED
AGAIN TO CUT EXPENSE

EXPLANATION OF DEFAULT IN ALIMONY PAYMENT FAILS TO MOVE COURT

Clarence E. Amor thought he had killed two birds with one stone by marrying the second time.

He thought it would help him explain why he was $1000 in arrears on alimony to his first wife, Minnie A. Amor. And it would save him the cost of paying a nurse, for he married his nurse, however, that although he may have cut the cost of nursing by his second marriage, he did not benefit himself any in the matter of alimony. He was in Judge Guerin's alimony court yesterday for his first wife's situation.

"I have another wife now to support," he protested.

"You shouldn't marry again in the face of an alimony order unless you are prepared to support two women," Judge Guerin replied.

"Well you see, judge, it was this way about that second marriage," Amor explained. "I had to have a nurse, and so I married one."

"You're saving money then, and ought to be able to pay your alimony right up. Pay $100 within a week and the balance within three weeks," was Judge Guerin's order.

PASADENA, Oct. 22. — Doris May Mack, 18-month-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John G. Mack, of 56 North Palm street, Alhambra, was drowned today in a shallow fish pond. The little girl's body was found in the pond by her mother.

Frantic screams by the distraught mother attracted two passers-by, Constable Morris and Olive Hoyer, both of whom are graduate nurses. They worked over the little body for a short time and later summoned an ambulance and took the body to the Emergency Hospital. Dr. P. C. Blaisdell at the hospital said the child had been dead for about an hour. The body was taken to the Reynolds & Eberle undertaking rooms.

After spending a night in the County Jail following the stabbing of Thomas J. Stevens, banker of Watts, W. S. Ward, owner of a newspaper at Watts, was released by the Sheriff's office yesterday when an investigation by Deputy Sheriff Mode revealed that no one was willing to swear out a complaint against Ward.

Ward was taken into custody Tuesday night following an altercation with Stevens said to have started over financial difficulties between the two that followed a political campaign.

The students were addressed by Senator Shortridge, who was a visitor at local headquarters yesterday. Senator Shortridge emphasized the fact that with them and their classmates will be the cause of good government. He outlined their duties as citizens of the country, and urged them to be at all times and under all conditions loyal to the United States, and to reverse the flag.

Row Over Loan for Political Campaign

After spending a night in the County Jail following the stabbing of Thomas J. Stevens, banker of Watts, W. S. Ward, owner of a newspaper at Watts, was released by the Sheriff's office yesterday when an investigation by Deputy Sheriff Mode revealed that no one was willing to swear out a complaint against Ward.

Ward was taken into custody Tuesday night following an altercation with Stevens said to have started over financial difficulties between the two that followed a political campaign.

The students were addressed by Senator Shortridge, who was a visitor at local headquarters yesterday. Senator Shortridge emphasized the fact that with them and their classmates will be the cause of good government. He outlined their duties as citizens of the country, and urged them to be at all times and under all conditions loyal to the United States, and to reverse the flag.

Show Man Returning Here Tells of Four-Theater Enterprise

Plan for an organization, with headquarters in Los Angeles, which will play musical revues simultaneously in Los Angeles, New York and Chicago, in four theaters, was announced here yesterday by the return of Harry Carroll, vaudeville headliner and organizer of Harry Carroll's "Pickings," at the Orange Grove Theater, from a two-months' trip in the East.

Details of the plan announced by Carroll, who has completed or brought about the cancellation of all contracts with the Keith and Orpheum circuits, include the construction of a theater in Chicago and the leasing of two others, both in New York.

Each of the four shows will be organized in Los Angeles and will have its premiere here, followed by four to six months' local engagements. As the new shows are organized, however, the already playing will be sent east to the remaining three circuits of the proposed circuit.

With him Carroll brought Zelma O'Neal, comedienne, who is to be one of the leads in the second show to be organized under Carroll's direction and upon which work will be started here within the next four weeks. Linda, a solo dancer, who will be written into the "Pickings" show at one also accompanied Carroll here.

"Plans for the construction of the Chicago theater are practically complete," declared the producer. "Only the signing of the necessary papers intervenes between the announcement of the plan and its execution. I expect to complete the plans for two New York theaters in a few days."

"It is entirely possible that the plans will be enlarged to include a theater in Los Angeles, but the present theater will continue to operate until further notice."

The organization will be operated as the Orange Grove Theater. And the business administration of the circuit, as well as the mobilization of talent and construction of vehicles, will be in Los Angeles.

Eleven Chinese Held as Lottery Game Suspects

Eleven Chinese were arrested by Serg. Swenson and Officers Howell, Boon and Hogue of the vice squad, in raids conducted yesterday on asserted lottery games.

At 763 North Alameda street they arrested Wei Wang for possession of a lottery ticket and seized, they reported, two slot machines and a quantity of liquor. A. H. Adams, the proprietor, was charged with possession of a gambling device and liquor.

Earlier in the evening, the squad visited a soft-drink stand at 4099 Lankersheim Boulevard and seized, they reported, two slot machines and a quantity of liquor. A. H. Adams, the proprietor, was charged with possession of a gambling device and liquor.

The machine, according to police, was a "Princess" brand, manufactured by the Pacific Coast Machine Co. of Los Angeles. It was a slot machine with a built-in jukebox.

Mrs. Rosier, 60 years of age, a visitor at the Alexandria from Des Moines, was knocked down and injured probably fatally by an automobile last night at the intersection of Forty-second and Figueroa streets.

The machine, according to police, was a "Princess" brand, manufactured by the Pacific Coast Machine Co. of Los Angeles. It was a slot machine with a built-in jukebox.

Mrs. Rosier was treated by Dr. Manning at the Receiving Hospital and was later removed to St. Vincent's Hospital. She is suffering from a skull fracture and internal injuries.

ALL CITY EMPLOYEES TO HEAR TAX EXPERT

The All-City Employees' Association will have its next regular meeting Saturday at 8 p.m. at the Roosevelt Hotel, Walker Auditorium Building. Roy A. Knox, efficiency director; Thomas E. Hunt, income tax expert; J. Prudden and Charles J. Prudden and there will be speakers by Mr. Lavalant and Miss Cordeiro. The income-tax talk is expected to cause much interest because of the recent rulings of Collector Goodrich that salaries of city employees in the Bureau of Light and Power and Harbor department are subject to tax.

RELIGIOUS TALK STIRS REMORSE

Prodigal Grandson Gives Self to Police After Y.M.C.A. Visit

A religious talk he heard at the Y.M.C.A. yesterday induced Edward P. Hahn, 18 years of age, to surrender to police and tell them he had run away from his home in Buffalo with $1500 of his grandmother's money.

A note on Y.M.C.A. stationery apprised the police that Hahn would be waiting for them at Second and Main streets. Detectives Canto and O'Brien went to keep the appointment and found the youth there, standing on the street corner with his hat off. This was the sign of recognition mentioned in the note.

The youth said his grandmother is Mrs. M. Hahn of 480 Pearl street, Buffalo, and that he left that city the last night. He added that nearly all the $1500 is gone. The police telegraphed Buffalo for instructions.

FIND SON OF CLERGYMAN HAS RECORD

Police Less Sympathetic on Learning of Sentence in Louisiana

Police were not quite so sympathetic last night with Albert L. M. Gross, 22 years of age, preacher's son and college student, as they had been shortly after his arrest Tuesday when he told them he planned to turn over to them a diamond ring because his wife and baby were near starvation.

The change came when they checked over records, they say, and found that Gross was sentenced to three years in the Louisiana State prison for diamond theft two years ago. He was released, they say, after he served one year.

It is also believed by the detectives that about twenty or thirty stolen tickets found at Gross's home at 211 East Forty-seventh place, did not bear out Gross's story that he had pawned his personal belongings of his wife, himself and his sister-in-law, Florence Fish, 21, who is also being held. Some of the stolen tickets, the detectives have been traced and have been found to stand for diamonds.

A further check is being conducted by the police.

THREATEN INJUNCTION ON VERMONT WIDENING

PROPERTY OWNERS ASSESS STREET SATISFACTORY FOR BUSINESS

Threats that they will join the City Council if further steps are taken to widen Vermont avenue to 100 feet between Wilshire and Hollywood boulevards were made yesterday by F. M. Murphy and G. W. Johnson on behalf of the Vermont Avenue Property Owners' Association. Petitioners opposing the widening are now in circulation and list a majority of the frontage of Vermont avenue between Wilshire and Hollywood boulevards.

The notice of intention to improve was passed by the City Council Tuesday last, and was based on a minority petition, according to the protesters. They said that the original petition opposing the widening was signed by persons at modest professions, drawn and are now listed among the opponents.

The protesters, according to Murphy, include eighteen of the twenty real estate firms doing business on the street and virtually all the mercantile concerns of them, he said, argue that Vermont needs only a width of eighty feet to be a business street and that it is being widened to a width of 100 feet and made into a heavily-trafficked automobile thoroughfare.

Some idea of the immensity of the project is gained when the data of furnishings are made public. One hotel recently finished thirty-seven miles of carpet on corridors and guest rooms, and 25,000 pounds of horsehair were used in filling the bed mattresses.

At Eleventh street and Hooper avenue, King engaged in the bandit in a fight and gained possession of his pistol, but fell from the car. King fired several shots at the departing car, but it was not reported to police, did not hit either occupant.

King believes the bandits intended to take him to the infrequent place and rob him. He turned the pistol over to police and gave them a description of the man and woman.

WOMEN'S LICENSES ORDERED REVOKED

Finding that they have been engaged in transactions which violated the Corporate Securities Act, Commissioner of Corporations Daugherty yesterday ordered the license of J. B. Lyons and Mark Baid, 419 San Julian street, permanently revoked. The action was taken after hearing the complaint of the Misses Jane and Hannah Hinington of Santa Monica. The brokers were charged with selling $2500 worth of Multinomial Lumber and Box Company stock, representing it to be worth $100 a share, besides dividends. The case was prosecuted by Deputy Commissioner Paul.

BEAUTY FROM EL PASO

Latest addition to the Hollywood roster of stars

Who's feet are set on the ladder that leads to stardom fame. She is Evelyn Pierce, and she obtained a contract with the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer Studios because artists and directors had designated her as the perfect American type.

She was selected from dozens of girls recently given screen tests and placed under contract. Aside from a few appearances as a dancer, she has had little professional experience.

Gross and his sister-in-law were arrested Tuesday by Detective Lieutenants Evans and Robinson, when their actions had aroused the suspicions of G. F. Hambricht, local representative of the Kimberly mines.

Gross is a son of an Episcopal rector in Massachusetts and a former trustee of the university man at Brown University.

Contributions to the gift shop of the Assistance League, 1564 De Longpre avenue, Hollywood, are steadily increasing and just now are taking on a Christmas atmosphere. Yesterday an unusual offering of gift boxes was received from Greenwich, Ct.

The gift boxes have the merit of utility and are designed to hold matches, gifts, to fit into bureau drawers, for use as waste baskets and for other household purposes. They are made of heavy cardboard covered with bright-colored paper of quaint design, decorated and varnished. Dainty handkerchiefs of delicate colors and beautiful workmanship carrying novel corner decorations are being included in the gift boxes.

There are also hand-woven rugs of wool in interesting designs, as well as many other attractive novelties made by individual workers. Many of the men and women who make these products are crippled or handicapped in some way that prevents them from active work. It is to help such persons that the Assistance League has established the gift shop.

The Thrift Shop is in need of contributions of clothing for men and women. These are sold to needy persons at moderate prices, and no charge is made, or payment deferred until some later time when the buyer has found employment.

Move is Planned to Place McCoy in Insane Ward

A motion to have Kid McCoy committed to the psychopathic ward of the General Hospital for observation will be made soon in Judge Craig's court, defense attorneys said.

The purpose of having McCoy sent to the hospital, the attorneys said, is that it is a much better place for the observation of his actions than the County Jail, and offers better facilities to alienists both of the prosecution and defense.

"McCoy is sane and is a malingerer," said Mr. Davis. "There is no reason for sending him to the hospital. We have had him examined by Drs. Parkin and Brown and they say he is sane."

McCoy's trial for the slaying of Mrs. Theresa Mory is set for December 1.

Jack Gilbert is to be Prince in 'Merry Widow'

Jack Gilbert has been selected to play the role of Prince Danilo in the forthcoming production of "The Merry Widow," according to an announcement made by Earl von Stroheim at the opening of the Merry Widow Cafe in Hollywood last night.

There has been much uncertainty as to the choice for the prominent part. Nearly a hundred telegram men and critics in an effort to determine whom they thought best fitted for the role. The majority voiced their preference for Gilbert.

Von Stroheim will direct the picture and Mae Murray has the title role.

ANGELENOS INVITED TO INSPECT BATTLESHIP

People of Los Angeles are invited to visit the battleship California at anchor at Los Angeles Harbor, next Monday from noon until 6 p.m. by Capt. R. de G. Hasbrouck, commander of the vessel. The invitation was extended in a letter received yesterday by Mayor Croyer. Next Monday has been officially set aside throughout the nation as Navy Day in honor of the late President Roosevelt, whose birthday is celebrated today.

Laurels will carry the visitors to the battleship from the landing at Fifth street, Los Angeles Harbor district.

MISSING BOY HUNTED

Aid of police was sought last night by John O'Bryan, 1933 Oak street, to locate his 13-year-old son, John, Jr., who is reported to have run away from home. Companions of the missing boy told the father that John said he intended to leave home because a teacher at the Norwood school asked him to bring his father to school so the teacher could tell him about catching John smoking a cigarette.

MISSING JOY IS BELIEVED IN DESERT ON BIKE

Joe Kentwig, Jr., who owns a motorcycle 13 years, is somewhere in the desert between San Antonio, Tex., and the California line, perhaps on a bicycle and certainly with very little money, according to meager information received by his father at San Pedro yesterday.

"He's used to camping out and can take care of himself, but I'd like to know just where he is," his father said.

Arizona authorities have been notified to be on the lookout for the youngster, who left San Antonio the 7th inst.

Our price emblems toward the bottom of this page read: $35 overcoats at $25, $40 overcoats at $30, $45 overcoats at $35. Ten dollars difference between value and price. The jibes with our slogan "Trade Upstairs and save $10"—long in use that changing it to conform with real facts would forfeit our copyright! But here are real facts.

We have cut, for these clothes, . . . fabrics known to one end of the textile industry to the other as $50 and $60 overcoatings. We have cut the linings from Skinner's Satin . . . which no merchant tailor can improve on for his $150 overcoat! We have devoted to the tailoring a standard scientific inner construction seldom met in overcoats at any price.

Re-doubled public demand, two new factories, and a nearly double volume production, have enabled us to go far beyond ever standards of saving that 500,000 old customers expect.
